CHELSEA, Nov. 26.—Four men held
up an automobile from the First National bank of Boston here today
and stole payroll funds said to amount to $28,000. They escaped in an automobile that carried a New York registration number. One of the men was thought to have been wounded by a shot fired by the bank messenger.

Score of Shots Exchanged

The holdup took place in front of the office of the A. G. Walton & Co.
shoe factory, on Spruce street. A score of shots were exchanged.
The bank automobile, carrying the weekly payroll for the factory, had stopped outside the office. Two messengers stepped from the machine
with the bag containing the money.
As they started to cross the sidewalk,
they were fired upon by three of the bandits. One of the latter snatched
the money bag and fled in their automobile. The others followed him, firing as they went.

A messenger who had remained inside the bank car, opened fire on the robbers. While the exchange of shots
was in progress, the bandits disappeared in the direction of Everett.

Officials of the shoe company said
the stolen bag contained $28,444.

Woman in Bandit Car
The local police later found a witness who said he was certain there
was a woman in the rear seat of the robbers' automobile.

Police head of the state police sent word broadcast that all the forces of his office should be on the alert to apprehend the fugitives.

Lowell Police Notified

The Lowell police were notified of the holdup this noon and immediately spread a fragment through the district in the hope of apprehending the bandits. All the hospitals in this city and nearby towns were warned by the police to report to them at once if any men suffering from shot wounds were taken there for treatment.

At 1 o'clock the local police received a telephone call from the Winchester police stating that an automobile answering the description of the car in which the bandits fled passed through that town shortly after noon at a swift rate of speed headed towards Lowell. The windshield of the car was broken and in the car were four men, one of whom was apparently sick or wounded, his head resting on the shoulders of another occupant.

WARNING TO CONGRESS

Must Guard Against Freak
Legislation Aimed at Funds
Saved by Naval Holiday

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—"The contemplated saving of several hundred millions of dollars through the limitation of armaments will result in hundreds of attempted raids on the United States treasury with freak legislation," said Representative Fess, chairman of the republican congressional committee, in a statement today.
"Congress will have to be alert to its guard to forestall in its inactivity freak legislation aimed at the funds
saved by the administration's disarmament policy," he said.
Representative Fess, who is chairman of the committee on education, said a recent investigation showed that less than one and one hundredth percent of the federal appropriation went for educational purposes.
"An ever-growing popular demand
for greater national interest in education, one of the most important features of the coming generation, demands first call on our resources," he said.

TRUCK DRIVER HAD
NARROW ESCAPE

A large truck, said to be owned by Theodore Thomas of North street, Boston, nearly plunked over the bridge into the canal at the junction of Broadway and Suffolk street shortly before noon today when the driver, whose identity could not be learned, suddenly swerved his steering wheel to one side to avoid colliding with another machine that was rounding the corner.

The truck broke through the fence
and one of its front wheels was well
over the edge of the bridge before it came to a full stop. Several persons who witnessed the accident said that the operator had a miraculous escape
from being pitched into the canal.

According to several persons who saw the mishap, the driver in trying to get out of the way of another car that was coming onto Broadway at a swift rate of speed turned his wheel too much heading the machine for the canal. He immediately applied the emergency brake, but before he could bring the truck, which was empty, to
a full stop, it broke through the wooden fence and one of its forward wheels hung over the bridge. With the assistance of two other trucks the machine shortly after was pulled back to the street and driven off on its own power.

$2,000,000 LOSS
IN AUGUSTA FIRE

Building in Heart of City's Business District Destroyed by Fire

Firemen From Seven Other Cities Called to Help Fight
Disastrous Blaze

AUGUSTA, Ga., Nov. 26.—Nearly one half of the 700 block of Broad street
and the entire eastern side of the 200
block of Jackson street, both in the heart of Augusta's business section,
were destroyed by fire early today
with a total loss of about $2,000,000.

The fire started about 2 o'clock in the five story Johnson building at Jackson and Broad streets and was not brought under control until daylight after fire departments from Savannah, Atlanta, Macon, Columbia, Charleston, Aiken and Wainsboro had been called upon for assistance.

The following buildings were in the path of the flames: Johnson building,
total loss; Harrison building, total loss; Albion hotel, total loss; and Gen-
esta hotel, partly burned.
The offices and plant of the Augusta Chronicle in the Harrison building had been completely lost. Other business establishments in Broad street destroyed were Liggett's drug store; P.
E. Ferris & Co.; John J. Miller & Co.; Gardner's drug store and men's clothing department of J. B. White & Co.
While the main fire was raging, another broke out in the 10 block of Jackson street, gutting three buildings.

Belief was expressed by Chief Fireman Reynolds that this fire had no connection with the main fire.
The origin of the principal fire had not been determined early today.

ARMY-NAVY
GAME IN RAIN

Vast Crowd Fills Polo Ground to Witness Annual Gridiron Battle

Field Reduced to the Soggy-ness of Sponge—Neither Team Scored in First Period

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—A vast body of spectators, despite a mean rain, turning out in their finest raincoats for a joust in the days when knighthood was in flower, filled the Polo grounds today to witness the Army and Navy do battle over a football.

Modernized was the passage of arms at Ashby, but replacing Ivanhoe and other gallant knights a-horseback, were young warriors in sweaters and moleskins engaging in a tourney of the 20th century.

But the same spirit pervaded the New York Stadium of 1921 as held the nobles and their ladies who assembled around the lists of Merrie England in the days of Richard II.
The glamor of brave deeds has ever drawn men and women to the rules of the tournament what they may.

Modernized was the scene, but in the essentials it was the same. Into the stands poured men and women who a few centuries before would just as eagerly have taken their seats in the Ashby pavilions. Pennants fluttered, but instead of heraldic devices they bore bold letters reading, "Army" or "Navy." Replacing knightly shields in front of horses were blankets of blue or gray, the markers of contenting warriors proclaiming where their supporters sat.

On the field were athletes representative of the flower of America's young manhood—gallant fellows who later might be called upon to show their bravery in graver battle. In the stands, as in the olden days, sat grim warriors past the age for gridiron battle but wise in council; statesmen and envoys from foreign countries partying in Washington over rules and penalties for fierce battles; the fairest of fair ladies, come the country over to witness the classic of the service.

The heralds of earlier days were replaced by 20th century youths. They were armed with megaphones instead of trumpets, but trumpets of purest brass could not have given forth the roar that came from lungs of lusty youth on the sidelines. There were no

PROTEST NEW

Chorus of Vigorous Protest Against Renewal of Warfare, if Parley Fails

Breakdown Imminent as Result of Sinn Fein Refusal to Swear Allegiance to King

LONDON, Nov. 26.—(By the Associated Press)—A chorus of vigorous protest against renewal of warfare in Ireland in the event the present peace
negotiations collapse, is raised by the morning newspapers after the meeting yesterday of Premier Lloyd George and Sir James Craig, Ulster
leader.

In this conference the British cabinet chief informed Sir James that Sinn Fein Ireland had refused to swear allegiance to the crown in return for an Ulster agreement to return an all-Ireland parliament. The scrip-turalness of the situation resulting from this refusal calls forth the reference to a possible recurrence of hostilities.

The government cannot engage in civil war with the Irish nation. If the people of Great Britain are determined that there shall be no war," declares the Daily News, adding:
"That is the dominant factor of the situation."

The Daily Herald, the labor organ, says: "A new war would outrage the morals of the whole world, and would never receive the sanction of the British people."

The trades union and labor movement must resist to the utmost the reference to the arbitration of force.

The men of all parties are urged by the Daily Express to rally to the defense of an Irish settlement.

The Westminster Gazette says it believes the British people are "quite determined not to fight anybody in Ireland in the interests of anybody
else in Ireland."

Further developments are awaited
with the keenest anxiety, the newspapers generally finding little comfort
in the outlook beyond the fact that negotiations are still proceeding.

To Tell Cause of Crisis
LONDON, Nov. 26.—(By the Associated Press)—The first official announcement of the cause of the crisis which has arisen in the Irish negotiations is expected to be made by Sir James Craig, the Ulster premier, at the reopening of the northern Ireland parliament next Tuesday.

He probably will disclose that Premier Lloyd George has been unable to assure him that the Sinn Fein had consented to declare allegiance to the king.

Should the negotiators find themselves unable to overcome the determination of the Sinn Fein on this question, it is believed Mr. Lloyd George will make a flying visit to Washington, meanwhile securing by the promise of a general election for obtaining a new mandate from the people, an extension of the existing truce.

The premier has gone to Chequers-court for the week-end. Sir James is in Belfast.

Arthur Griffith, head of the Sinn Fein delegation, returned this morning from Dublin after securing the endorsement of his attitude by the Dail cabinet.

To Adjourn Conference DUBLIN, Nov. 26.—(By the Associated Press)—The London correspondent of the Irish Independent asserts today that Premier Lloyd George plans to adjourn or suspend the Irish conference with the statement that he is awaiting a more favorable opportunity to renew the search for a settlement.

GOV. BAXTER RESENTS
HARVEY'S REMARK

AUGUSTA, Me., Nov. 26.—Governor Percival P. Baxter in a statement today in reply to a remark by Ambassador George Harvey in a speech at London on Thanksgiving day declared that the people of this state always have "kept the faith of their fathers."

"As governor of Maine," he said, "I resent any reflection upon our past equality as I do upon our present."

As for the ambassador's quoted remark that "The pilgrim sons" installed
"a government of authorized caprice," I suggest that caprice or capriciousness has no place in an accurate description of Maine character or Maine institutions, past or present.

"The state of Maine from earliest times, has stood for leadership in thought, achievement and adherence to principle. The faith of their fathers has been kept by the people of Maine, and in keeping that faith, they have not been outdone by their neighbors in other states."

"Our people have consistently held to a fixed purpose to overcome obstacles," Gov. Baxter added, "to give that liberty to each individual that will not endanger the lawful liberties of others and above all to establish and maintain a stable and enduring government, based upon the free will of a free people. Any man who knows the Maine of history or the Maine of today understands or at least hopes that the ambassador must have been misquoted."

"The early settlers of Maine landed upon a rough and rock-fringed coast, faced the most rigorous climate of all our states, fought and overcame the most warlike savages who attempted to rule the land, and maintained a stable and enduring government, based upon the free will of a free people. Any man who knows the Maine of history or the Maine of today understands or at least hopes that the ambassador must have been misquoted."

DENIES BRIAND USED
"HARSH WORDS"

ROME, Nov. 26.—(By the Associated Press)—Foreign Minister Delia Portetta today announced he had received a cable message from Senator Schanzer, head of the Italian delegation at Washington, emphatically denying press dispatches from the American capital alleging that Premier Briand of France had used harsh words to the Italian delegate in a committee meeting at Washington.

"No incident occurred," the message from Senator Schanzer read, "This discussion in the committee meeting was lively but always correct." Briand used no language which could in any way be interpreted as offensive to Italy."

Lloyd George to go to the Washington conference and to ensure for himself a friendly reception in America by "soothing statements" that the Irish conference is still in being and that any questions that might be raised on the subject of an Irish peace agreement would damage the prospects of settlement. To this the Independent adds:

"We will not be allowed to do this,
and it is safe to say that if the Irish conference comes to an end, he will never appear at the Washington conference."

To Withdraw Foreign Postoffices in China
WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—(By the Associated Press)—Withdrawal of foreign postoffices in China was informally agreed to in principle today by the Far Eastern committee of the Washington conference and a resolution to that effect will be drafted by a sub-committee to work out details of the plan. The question of extra territoriality, was gradual abolition of which was agreed to in principle yesterday, was not considered by the nine nations represented at today's sitting.

Third Attempt to Salvage Cargo Fails

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—The third attempt to salvage the $4,000,000 gold and silver cargo on the Ward Line steamer Merida, sunk 10 years ago off the Virginia Capes, has failed, it was admitted today at the offices of the H. L. Gotham Corporation, which financed the salvage expeditions. Bad weather has been responsible for the three failures, according to the officers of the salvaging company. The project now has been abandoned until next spring at least.

Quarter Century Ago

Quarter century ago the street railway men held their annual ball in Huntington hall and from the account of it printed in the old Sun we take the following:

"None but the misanthropes and chronic cranks would have found fault last evening if his conductor gave him the wrong change or if his motor-man jumped four or five switches, for the thoughts of these hard-working knights of the road were far away and lingered over a scene of beauty and merriment which fate had ordained was not for their participation until the last trip had been rounded and the last account settled.

"The occasion of these happy thoughts was the second annual concert and ball of the Lowell and Suburban Street Railway Employees Relief association, which it is their duty to remark is composed of an intelligent and cautious body of street railway men as can be found in New England."

I notice in looking over the list of officers in charge that many of them have passed away, while of those who survive, but very few remain in the service, the chief of whom is Mr. Leica. The officers of the affair were: General manager, John R. Conway; assistant, Charles D. West; reception committee, Florence J. O'Donoghue; chairman, Charles Lapointe; M. O'Donnell, John Butler, Bert Myers, Thomas Lonergan, Thomas Handley, Walter Briggs, Joseph Wood; William Mitchell, treasurer; J. A. Winchester, secretary; floor director, Frank J. Conroy; assistant, Walton B. Potter; aids, chief, James Quinlan; Joseph Moore, W. A. Hayes, Thomas Lees, William Calise, James J. Kennedy, Arthur Chase, and John McDonald.

Delay in Election Returns
It is nothing new to have election returns held up in backward places. For example, the presidential election was held on November 3 and it was Nov. 21 before the final returns were received from Rio Horn, Wyo., as the following dispatch from the old Sun indicates:

"WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—The returns from Rio Horn, Wyo., the last debatable and doubtful county in the United States to get in its vote, closes up the list of that state, which is the last to be decided. The figures now are: McKinley, 212; Bryan, 175."

Before that report was received it was well understood that McKinley had defeated Bryan but there was no certainty as to the exact electoral vote that each received. It was only then that the totals were computed. Rio Horn, Wyo., in the national election of that year was the national birthplace of precinct 5 of ward 7 in the municipal primaries.

Political Cuckoos
There was some hot time in local politics here in 1893 as may be judged from articles in the old Sun. Here, for example, are a couple of items from the political column:

"Honestest democrats to the front. Cuckoos to the rear. No nominations for cuckoo."
That was but a slight indication of the heat that came to the man who, when elected on the democratic ticket, turned and voted against the democratic candidates. He was thereafter referred to as a political "cuckoo."

Here is another item from the political column:
"Sam Scott is a candidate for the council in ward one on the republican ticket. Sam is one of the joiners and it is said that he belongs to more societies than any man in the city and if a small collection of each society should vote for him, he would be a sure winner."

Sam Scott is now setting his hand to work in politics. He was elected to the common council for 1907. The city charter in force in 1906 provided for nominating conventions to name the candidates for mayor and aldermen. One aldermanic candidate was elected from each ward. The democratic nomination of that year was given in the old Sun as follows:

For mayor, Hon. William F. Courtney.
For aldermen, Ward 1—Edward R. Pierce; ward 2—Charles H. Cosgrove; ward 3—Coolidge R. Johnson; ward 4—David H. Gerow; ward 5—Guy H. Holbrook; ward 6—Henry Hamer; ward 7—John Vincent; ward 8—Oliver A. Libbey; ward 9—Lawrence Cummings (declined).

The republican ticket was as follows:
For Mayor—Col. James W. Bennett.
For aldermen: Ward 1—Edward T.

SEIZED STILL BUT CAN'T PROSECUTE

In a raid in an empty tenement at 50 Elm street late yesterday afternoon the police liquor squad seized a 125 gallon still, the largest yet found in Lowell, but did not succeed in unearthing any moonshine. Although they confiscated the still, 19 barrels of mash and other ingredients used in manufacturing the liquor, the fact that no finished product was obtained makes it impossible for the local authorities to convict any person who may be either the owner of the apparatus or the proprietor of the building. As the law was explained today the federal authorities can charge a person with illegally possessing a still but police departments cannot do so and must rely on a charge of illegally keeping intoxicating liquor or selling the same to bring about conviction. The absence of the liquor in this particular case puts both of the above charges out of the question. The distilling paraphernalia can be seized, however. The still taken by Sgt. Winn and Officers Costello, Kenney and Clark, was set up on two oil stoves, arranged with remarkable care and skill, the officers state.

CURED HIS RHEUMATISM

"I am eighty-three years old and I doctored for rheumatism ever since I came out of the army, over 50 years ago. Like many others, I spent money freely for so-called cures, and I have read about 'Uric Acid' until I could almost taste it. I could not sleep nights or walk without pain, my hands were so sore and stiff I could not hold a pen. But now I am again in active business and can walk with ease or write all day with comfort. Friends are surprised at this good news and might just as well attempt to put out a fire with oil as try to get rid of your rheumatism, neuritis and like complaints by taking treatment supposed to drive Uric Acid out of your blood and body. It took Mr. Ashelman fifty years to find out the truth. He learned how to get rid of the true cause of his rheumatism, other disorders, and cover his strength from 'The Inner Mysteries,' now being distributed free by an authority who devoted over 20 years to the scientific study of this trouble. If any reader of The Sun wishes 'The Inner Mysteries of Rheumatism' overlooked by doctors and scientists for centuries, past, simply send a post card or letter to H. P. Clearwater, No. 1012 E. street, Hallowell, Maine. Send no less you forget. If not a sufferer, cut out this notice and send it to some afflicted friend. All who send will receive it by return mail without any charge whatever—Adv.

AFTER GRIP TAKE A TONIC

A single attack of the grip may mean a lifetime of misery if proper precautions are not taken to restore the blood and drive out the lingering poisons that cause the so-called "after-effects" of the disease.

The grip leaves behind it weakened vital powers, thin blood, impaired digestion and over-sensitive nerves—a condition that makes the system an easy prey to pneumonia, bronchitis, rheumatism, nervous prostration, and even consumption.

A wise precaution after a grip cold is to take a course of treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in the tonic dose of one after each meal until the blood is built up and the general health and strength of the system restored.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are also useful in such diseases as anemia, rheumatism, nervous debility and neuralgia. They are sold by all druggists, or will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 60 cents per box, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.—Adv.

ABOUT THIS TIME O' YEAR

the process of totalling such votes. In view of the fact that the specifications contain the word "count" as well, the word "tabulation" could reasonably well be resolved to mean the word "count."

The election law provides certain machinery for the correction of errors in counted primaries and elections wherein it endeavors to provide against the element of mistake in counting ballots, by authorizing citizens of a ward or precinct to petition for a recount of votes. For such a recount the statute states in particular language that the petitioners shall specify that the records made by the election officers are erroneous, "specifying wherein they deem them to be in error and that they believe a recount of ballots cast in such precinct or town will affect the election of one or more candidates voted for."

It appears clear, in view of the statutory provisions in relation to recounts, and the petition for recount filed by voters in the matter of Jeremiah J. O'Sullivan, that your board can only consider the recount of votes cast for Mr. O'Sullivan. This view is confirmed by the following statutory language:

"All recounts shall be upon the questions designated in the statement filed, and no other count shall be made, or allowed to be made, or other information taken, or allowed to be taken, from the ballots of such recount."

In conclusion, therefore, it is my opinion that the sole question before your board in the matter of such petition is to determine whether the count of ballots at the recent primary for Jeremiah J. O'Sullivan is correct; that is, whether the record or copies of records made by the election officers are correct in the count of votes credited to Mr. O'Sullivan.

Sincerely yours,
WILLIAM D. REGAN,
City Solicitor.

Commissioners' Interpretation

The commissioners infer from this opinion that they are required to recount only the votes cast for the petitioners and for no others. When asked whether they would recount the other candidates' votes, the commissioners were unable to give an official answer, as all members of the board must be present to take any action on the matter. The question will be taken up, in all probability, before the mayoralty recount begins. The time for this recount has been set for Monday at 10 a. m.

The members of the commission express confidence that they will finish the mayoralty recount on Monday, and will be ready to proceed with the school committee recount, petitioned for by Thomas Garrity, on Tuesday morning at the same hour. The recount of this vote, however, will take more than a day, and perhaps two or three days.

Want Extra Precinct
The following letter in regard to an additional precinct in ward seven has been received by the election commission:

Lowell, Mass., November 23, 1921.
Election Commission,
Gentlemen:—Having witnessed the congested conditions that took place at precinct 3 of ward 7 at the primary election held on November 22, when over 1600 votes were cast, may we suggest to your honorable board the absolute necessity of providing an additional precinct in the seventh ward. We would also recommend that said precinct be located at the junction of Riverside street and Mammoth road.

Respectfully yours,
WILLIAM H. RIGBY,
CORNELIUS E. CRONIN.
In reference to this letter, the commissioners say that it will be impossible to add any precincts this year. The law provides that new precincts must be created by vote of the municipal council before July 1 of any given year. It was planned by the commission to add 20 new precincts this year, but the old law, which called for a precinct for each 1000 voters, was changed by the legislature last year to read first 1500 and then 2000 voters. According to law, it will be necessary to create a new precinct in ward 8 next year, since precinct 1 of that ward contains over the number of voters allowed by law, but for the maintenance of the law, the only thing that can be done is to add to the size of the polling booths in the large precincts, and this may be done in one or two instances. There has been a great deal of talk among local legislators to the effect that the law which puts the creation of precincts in the hands of the municipal council may be changed during the next session, and full power vested in the election commission.

Same Old Question

"Shall licenses be granted for the sale of certain intoxicating beverages in this city?"
The voters will be given an opportunity to express themselves on this question on Dec. 13.

PRE-PRIMARY MEETING BY ELECTION BOARD AND CANDIDATES

Mayoralty Candidates Expressed Their Individual Views as to Conduct of Primaries, Extension of Time, Lighting, Policing, Etc.

Since there was more or less excitement created yesterday relative to the demand of Jeremiah J. O'Sullivan that the election commission produce the records of the meeting held Monday afternoon of this week in the alterman chamber, at which the members of the election commission and five of the mayoralty candidates were present, a statement of just what occurred at that session might be interesting.

Mr. O'Sullivan opened the discussion, acting as spokesman for the

SO MANY PEOPLE ARE NERVOUS

"Fruit-a-lives" the Greatest of all Nerve Remedies

This Fruit Medicine Restores Health

The increase in the number of persons suffering from Nervousness is world-wide; due, in a measure, to the reaction following the war. Sleeplessness, Headaches, Mental Depression, Rheumatism, Nervous Dyspepsia, Bad Heart Action, are the results of a disturbed condition of the Nervous System.

The nerves and the blood are so intimately, so vitally, connected that the condition of one is bound to affect the condition of the other. If the blood is laden with impurities, it is impossible to have strong, steady nerves.

The first essential in treating nervous troubles is to purify and enrich the blood. This, "FRUIT-A-LIVES" will do.

"FRUIT-A-LIVES" stimulates the bowels, kidneys and skin and purifies the blood. "Fruit-a-lives" improves appetite and digestion and insures food being properly digested, thus enabling the blood to carry wholesome nourishment to build up the body, particularly the nerves.

AWARD GIVEN TO CADILLAC

The United States government has formally recognized the service rendered by the Cadillac in the war by an award for distinguished service to the Cadillac Motor Car company.

The award is in the form of a parchment with the war department eagle and the great seal of the United States, and says:

REAL VENCE-BUSTING KEEPS BALL PLAYERS IN CONDITION

A bunch of Coast league baseball players are "vence busting" in earnest at the Sacramento, Cal., ball lot just now. The players are men wintering at Sacramento. The contractor doing the remodeling of the park offered them jobs and they grabbed them. More than ever this year, are they filled with fun. They have a lot of new song numbers, and the inimitable line of foolery which has always distinguished them.

There are few delineators of the southern negro who depict the type as correctly as do the Bowman brothers. The quaintness of delivery and peculiarity of style in singing make them stand apart from the ordinary lot of imitators of the southern negro, by and stories are new, and with them come the genuine "Dixie" where the real negro is rapidly vanishing.

Raymond Bond will come to town in his delightful play, "Remnants," a quaint, homespun comedy in which Mr. Bond plays the part of a rural salesman, endeavoring to dispose of women's hosiery to the sophisticated buyer in a big city department store. "Remnants" is skillfully written. In his work Mr. Bond is likened to William Hodge and Sol Smith Russell.

Sonia Baraban and Chas. C. Grohs have just staged a topsy-turvy comedy which has, as its climax, "Aztec Indian Love." There are four dances in the act altogether, all working up to the big number, Miss Peggie Carhart is a concert violinist who, for the time being, is devoting herself to vaudeville. Her repertoire is a splendid one. Daley, Mac & Daley are really remarkable roller skaters, and Nestor & Vincent are balancers of note.

OPERA HOUSE

"Why Girls Leave Home" to Be Presented Next Week by the Lowell Players

Every one, both the young and the old, but more particularly the mothers and daughters of the city and suburbs, should not fail to see and benefit thereby in the coming production, by the Lowell Players at the Opera House, of that wonderfully true and startlingly strong melodrama, "Why Girls Leave Home." The first performance will be given Monday night and continue twice daily for the remainder of the week, excepting Friday matinee. "Why Girls Leave Home" goes right to the heart of the problem that is so vitally involved in its story, does not deviate one bit from its purpose in presenting a clearcut, forceful and constructive story that reveals not only the reasons, but also skillfully suggests a correction for the evil that is so prevalent at the present time. It has been so destructive to the average American home for many years back. The plot of the play, so well known to many of the theatre-goers of our community, reflects the life of a fatherless young girl, lonesome at her home, who accepts the attentions of others, and eventually is deceived to a café cabaret, then drugged and deserted. She is then rescued by a woman who professes to be her friend, and is taken to a house and there held to meet a rich old roué. Her brother discovers her whereabouts and goes to her rescue, but before he accomplishes it she disappears and he is charged with her death. At the critical moment she turns up, clears the atmosphere of the suspicions thrown about her, and then looks into a bright and happy future.

Do you realize that 60,000 girls, both rich and poor, are reported missing from their homes from year to year? Why? Youthful impulses—lack of proper companionship, craving for amusement, desire to be "somebody," parental neglect, domestic quarrels, unjust accusations, shattered romance, lure of the big city for the innocent of the small places, and other causes are pointed to as the contributors for these misfortunes that come to many families. "Why Girls Leave Home," is rightly called a dynamic question of the hour, one that must be met. The play reflects with characteristic realism, the experiences of many a girl from all walks of life. Miss Shirley Magrath, the talented young leading woman of the Players, will have one of her best dramatic parts, and Kalman Matus, the leading man, will also find ample opportunity to indicate his exceptional talent. Director Rayold unhesitatingly proclaims the play one of the strongest of its kind of the season and one in which the entire engaging cast will show to particular advantage. Tickets now selling. Telephone 261. Have you placed your name on the subscription list yet? If you haven't, you should. It costs no more.

IRISH CONCERT

The coming of Shaun O'Farrell and his company of artists to the Opera house for a return engagement Sunday afternoon and night, will be good news to the large number who last Sunday, thoroughly enjoyed the concert given here. It was because of the marked success that characterized this concert program that caused the management to secure a return engagement. Mr. O'Farrell, who is called the Irish Troubadour, will be heard in such numbers as "The Irish Volunteer," "Little Bridget Flynn," "Motto or Achushla" and other popular selections. Miss Kitty O'Sullivan, the song bird of Erin, will sing "Colleen Dhas," "Maureen" and other popular numbers, while John O'Nolan and Miss Nora O'Rourke will assist. The motion pictures to be shown are exclusive in these parts and include views of the interior of Dublin castle, the opening of the Dail Eireann parliament, scenes outside the Mansion House, and also views of Countess Marclaviez, whose activities in the interest of Ireland are too well known to need reviewing at this time. Tickets now on selling. Telephone 261. Order early and avoid possible disappointment.

Gareth Hughes Amusing as "Little Eva" in New Comedy

GARETH HUGHES DRESSED AS LITTLE EVA OF "UNCLE TOM'S CABIN" IN HIS NEW MOVIE. THE PHOTO ON THE LEFT IS PRINTED SO YOU MAY SEE HOW HE LOOKS WITHOUT CURLS.

By JAMES W. DEAN

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—"Uncle Tom's Cabin" is staged for a lively comedy situation in Gareth Hughes' latest vehicle, "Little Eva Ascends."

Hughes in the film is forced by his mother to don a curly wig and play the part of Eva, even though he is wearing long trousers and is changing from boy to man.

He rebels against playing the part when he reaches the town where his sweetheart lives. His mother persuades him to go on. This with the help of his brother who plays the part of Uncle Tom.

Little Eva is dying. "Where is heaven, Uncle Tom?" she asks. Then sotto voce, "I got a good notion to talk bass and show 'em I'm not a girl."

Uncle Tom: "Up in the clouds—don't crab the show, kid."

Little Eva: "Love, Joy, Heaven—it's hell here playing this part."

A kid in the gallery says, "She ain't a boy. He's a girl."

As Eva ascends the ladder another kid shouts, "Hurry up and get to heaven, sister!"

Eva stops on the way to heaven to challenge his taunter to a fight.

That ends the show.

MOTHER—HAS YOUR CHILD THESE SYMPTOMS?

Mothers, watch children for symptoms of internal disorders. Look at your child NOW! Is his breath offensive and tongue coated? Does he grind his teeth or start in his sleep? Does he pick or scratch his nose? Is his appetite changeable? Has he occasional griping pains? Is he constipated?

These are some symptoms of worms. Great distress often results from these parasites. Believe these quickly with Dr. Tru's Elixir, the Family Laxative and Worm Expeller—purely vegetable—first prescribed by an old-fashioned Maine country doctor 71 years ago. Dr. Tru's Elixir, the Family Laxative and Worm Expeller, purifies the bowels as it cleans them. A favorite of careful mothers for four generations. Correct constipation in young and old. Get the Family size of Dr. Tru's Elixir, the Family Laxative and Worm Expeller.

HIGH COST OF LIVING COMING DOWN

One of the most prominent commodities in the high cost of living that is lower in price, is that of food, which is a blessing to the majority of people, as they will soon be able to afford better meals, but what good is a fine meal if you suffer from indigestion and stomach troubles. You can easily be relieved of these disorders and keep your stomach and digestive organs healthy by taking SEVEN BARKS, nature's remedy of roots and herbs.

The stomach is where digestion begins, but the most important work is done by the bowels, liver and kidneys—failure of these to act efficiently allows the whole body to be poisoned and if neglected will lead to serious trouble. But if you will take from 10 to 20 drops of SEVEN BARKS in a little water after meals, you can eat and enjoy your favorite food without fear of serious results.

Stomach disorders, if neglected, lead to kidney and bladder troubles. If you are compelled to arise from your slumber once or twice during the night, have dark rings around the eyes, feel or legs swell, palpitation of the heart, it proves your kidneys are affected. SEVEN BARKS will relieve you and keep you well. Ask your druggist for it. Price 69

United Artists' production, "Through The Back Door," while Fairbanks will be shown in "The Nut." Patrons of the city and suburbs will no doubt appreciate the unusual offering of the management and avail themselves of the rare opportunity that it presents. The bill will run the entire week and our advice is to attend the performances early in the week so as to avoid the crush that is sure to come during the week-end.

The story of "Through The Back Door" concerns a little girl who, because her mother made her mother leave her in Belgium, little Jeanne Beaumont faced the problem of wanting recognition from the mother who thought her dead. She came to America as an immigrant when the world war broke out with only a note and a passport to make her identity known. Her mother lives in a place called Long Island. The child came to it in a delivery wagon. Of course, the mother did not recognize her, and circumstances conspired that prevented her from telling her who she was. In order to gain entrance into the home that was rightfully hers she had to enter it through the back door as a servant. The trials and tribulations she encountered, the heart-aches and the plots she found all combined to make a fascinating and gripping drama. And the climax that made possible the mother love this little child.

"Caucasian of the Royal Mounted," Ralph Connor's story, most members of the force will be seen. It will be interesting to hold them in comparison with the screen variety.

TESTIFY FOR ARBUCKLE

More Witnesses Called to Stand in Trial of Movie Comedian

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 26.—Further defense testimony formed today's program in the manslaughter trial of R. C. (Fatty) Arbuckle.

A delegation of witnesses from the Los Angeles motion picture colony, headed by Alice Lake, screen star, was here in expectation of taking the stand to testify in Arbuckle's behalf.

No announcement has been made by the defense as to when Arbuckle would take the witness stand.

Medical experts gave evidence at yesterday's session tending to show that the injury which caused the death of Virginia Rappe in connection with whose death Arbuckle is on trial, may have been induced otherwise than by the defendant.

At yesterday's session Dr. Rumwell testified to having attended Miss Rappe after the Arbuckle party.

Miss Rappe told him she had been drinking and "she did not recollect anything that had happened." Dr. Rumwell testified that the prosecution moved that this testimony be stricken out, but the court allowed it to remain.

Dr. Rumwell said he saw no bruises or other marks on Miss Rappe's body. Dr. Rumwell was not cross-examined. Miss Irene Morgan, trained nurse of South Pasadena, was the next witness.

Miss Morgan said she was employed in Hollywood by Miss Rappe as housekeeper and trained nurse. She said she saw Miss Rappe tearing at her clothes "many times" and treated her at least five times for bladder trouble.

Her patient used "to double up and cry" presumably as a result of her trouble, the witness said.

Under cross examination the witness testified to having attended a South Pasadena woman during an operation. The prosecution explained that by bringing out this information it wished to establish a motive for Miss Morgan's statement regarding Miss Rappe. This line of evidence was stopped by the court.

The crowd was so dense at the opening of the afternoon session that the defendant and counsel had difficulty in reaching their seats.

FOR ASSOCIATION OF NATIONS

Conferences Among the Nations Once a Year Suggested

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26. (By the Associated Press).—With the arms conference negotiations proceeding in an atmosphere of friendliness which delegates generally believe insures progress and accomplishment, importance attached to its outcome today as a result of the informally expressed hopes of President Harding that the conference might lay the foundation for conferences among the nations once a year with the aim of perpetuating a closer international accord. The president's plan, which has been offered only as a personal suggestion to some of the foreign delegates who have generally approved it, was an outstanding topic of discussion in conference circles as the delegates convened this morning for another committee session to take formal action on their virtual decision yesterday for gradual abolishment of extra-territorial rights in China.

Submission of the result of the present negotiations for approval not only to the participating nations, but to those not represented here, including Germany and Russia, was indicated as a possible first step toward world-wide endorsement of the conference plan.

The plan, as offered by the president, was understood to have embraced no details nor was there any indication that any covenant or constitution would be proposed as its basis. This would accord generally with its possible fulfillment eventually of President Harding's "association of nations" idea.

The president's informal proposal comes at a time of growing indication that further negotiations will be necessary to consummate the task begun here, a case in point already reached being the virtual decision of the conference yesterday to send an international committee of jurists to investigate China's judicial system.

The Far Eastern committee of the world also was expected to conclude today its discussion of the question of abolishing foreign post offices in China.

RIALTO THEATRE

"Playthings of Destiny" With Anita Stewart Featuring Is Attractions at Rialto Next Week

Anita Stewart in "Playthings of Destiny" is the big attraction of the Rialto theatre for the three opening days of next week beginning Monday afternoon. It is said to be one of the best productions in which the popular actress has appeared.

The game program is a second equally good attraction, featuring Blanche McHardy in "Love's Redemption," also an Educational comedy, the "Kinograms." For Thursday, Friday and Saturday the Rialto has booked the big production, "Salvation." Sullivan Starck in the leading role, also Marjorie Rameau, well known stage actress in "On Her Honor," a comedy and the Kinograms. Manager, Frager, announces that it is one of the best balanced and attractive programs of the season to date.

"Playthings of Destiny" is hailed by critics as one of the best and most dramatic productions in which Miss Stewart has ever appeared. It was adapted from "The Tornado," a novel by Jan Mardin, by Anthony East Kelly, who has prepared the scenarios for some of the best screen attractions.

The story is of Julie Langan, a Canadian backwoods school teacher, who is led to believe that "Geoffrey Arnold" with whom she is interested is a married man. She flees from his cabin in the midst of a blizzard and nearly freezes to death before she is rescued by Herbert Randolph. They are now bound in his cabin for nearly six weeks during which time Randolph learns to love her and proposes marriage.

Julie is aware that in the near future she is to have another life to live, and after frankly telling Herbert she has no intention of leaving him, she marries him. Herbert rises rapidly in the world and is in line for governor general of Jamaica, when the Earl of Stanbridge arrives on the island.

Julie is the first of the great story clears away all the misunderstandings that keep them apart.

The Sunday show at the Rialto is one of the best of the season, introducing an all star cast in Thomas H. Ince's production, "Mr. Lady's Gaiter," and Paul Gilmore in "Isle of Destiny." There will also be four acts of high class vaudeville.

"THE BLASPHEMER" The ordinary themes of the motion picture are, the love, romance, the triangle, and adventure. In fact, it is very hard to get a theme beyond the ordinary, but "The Blasphemer" is based upon a motive which is very unusual, as indeed, it is in its theme. The story of blasphemy is one which we seldom hear of, and which seldom occurs in human nature shrinks from it and others it. In the story of "The Blasphemer" the great sin is lead up to by a perfectly logical development.

Its principal character, Frank Harrison, is shown to have been from childhood an intensely selfish character. Although brought up by a devoted mother in a religious atmosphere, in after life he discovers all these early religious influences, and is made aware of his own selfishness, and how he can do without God. He even goes so far as to boast, at a banquet given to his intimates, that he is self-sufficient to himself, and to

The crowning event of the four days' bazaar will come Friday evening when the most elaborate republican ball in the history of Massachusetts will be held in the great hall featuring will be handled by Mrs. Achin, room of the Copley Plaza with some two more interesting dolls are those of which have been contributed one to be ing to Lowell of Rev. Fr. O'Flanagan, of Roscommon, Ireland, former vice-president of the Irish republic. Since the Easter week rebellion Rev. Fr. O'Flanagan has been a prominent figure in the Irish movement.

He is frequently referred to as the "architect of Dan Breen," and has been paid the compliment by President de Valera of having done as much to bring Ireland to her present strong position as any other living man.

The local branches of the A.A.R.I.R. will hold a meeting in A.O.H. hall, Sunday evening, to make arrangements for the reception to Fr. O'Flanagan on Tuesday evening at Associate hall. It will be under the direction of the O'Connell district council and all the members are urgently invited to attend. At 2 o'clock in the afternoon there will be a meeting at the same hall of the fifth district councils of the A.A.R.I.R. This will bring large delegations from Woburn, Tewksbury, Wilmington, Maynard, Chelmsford, Billerica, Reading, and many of the other towns of the district.

It is expected that large delegations from the surrounding towns will attend the demonstration on Tuesday evening in order to hear the brilliant orator discuss the present conditions of Ireland and her prospects for an early settlement and permanent independence.

A New York jury of artists has declared she has the most beautiful form in the United States. But who's going to admit that any New York jury knows everything about beauty? And, anyway, this jury didn't have all the evidence before them, did it? Your opinion is as good as theirs.

She has been supporting her crippled father by working in an office. Now she is debating between accepting a $1000 prize and a movie engagement.

Kip has always been jealous of Mr. Pim Pim, because Kip was King of the Brownies' until Pim came. But Kip was always getting the Brownies into trouble and making them so tricky that, my goodness gracious alive, they got to be almost as bad as the gnomes! So the Fairy Queen sent Pim Pim to govern the Brownies and to keep Kip in order as well. Just like our president sends a governor to rule over people who can't take care of themselves.

"The Twins were listening carefully. 'Then I suppose that everything Mr. Pim Pim does, Kip tries to keep him from doing. Is that it?' asked Nancy. 'Exactly,' said the Mushroom. 'That's just it, my dear. And when the message came from the Fairy Queen about getting the shiny dyes for the Christmas things, didn't Kip go and tattle to the gnomes right away. Now there's a fine song and dance!'

"We'll have to go at once," said Nick, starting off toward the dogwood tree. "Mr. Pim Pim may be needing help right at this minute!" (To Be Continued.) (Copyright, 1921, The Lowell Sun.)

URGES FIVE CENT FARE FOR LOWELL

Quoting in part a statement he made several months ago in favor of a five cent fare on the street railway, Mayor Perry D. Thompson last night addressed a letter to the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Co., 1 Beacon St., Boston, Mass. Dear Sir:—It has come to my attention through the daily press that Fall River is the first district in the Bay State system to achieve the five-cent fare, the public trustees having put into effect this week in that city, a 20-day punch card ticket, good on all lines.

You will recall that in March of this year, after appearing in person before the public trustees at a joint meeting with the Lowell home rule committee and urging a trial, at least, of the five-cent fare proposition in Lowell, I took a great deal of interest in the orders introduced in the legislature by representatives of a number of cities, calling for a legislative investigation of the possibility of the establishment of five cents as a basic unit of fare on the lines of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Co. I committed myself to five cents as the basis for a single fare in Lowell some time ago, or at the hearing above mentioned and at that time newspaper records show that I addressed the conference in part as follows:

"My attitude on the subject is a matter of record. The higher fare has not proved a success from the railway's point of view. It has not earned enough revenue to meet the expenses that the road is authorized by law to incur. A higher fare having failed, why not give a lower one a trial? I am convinced that it would prove a success and a solution of the street railway company's difficulties. I believe thoroughly that Lowell should have five cent fares. It would benefit the people who patronize the cars and would produce more revenue for the roads."

I still hold that as my opinion and as head of the municipality of Lowell, I do earnestly urge you and your board to give the city sincere and thorough consideration in the matter of a fare reduction here that will return us to the old standard rate of five cents.

Very truly yours,
PERRY D. THOMPSON,
Mayor of Lowell.

BY MARIAN HALE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25—No, dear, the lady hasn't her dress on wrong side out.

That is, the wrong side is the right side!

It's all the style to make up satin crepe with "inside out."

The fact started in Paris and our smart dressers coming home from the Rue de la Paix all have at least one satin crepe dress with the glossy side concealed.

In America the fact has been repeated, although the popular satin crepe in this country holds its sherry brightness still in favor.

Satin crepe, one of the most popular materials, is worn both reversed and right side out.

It is made along the Greek lines, which are so graceful, with the American touch showing in the long tassels at the side and on the sleeves.

How Miserable This Woman Was Until She Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Toomsboro, Ga.—"I suffered terribly with backache and headache all the time, was so weak and nervous I didn't know what to do, and could not do my work. My trouble was deficient and irregular periods. I read in the papers what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for others and decided to give it a trial. I got good results from its use so that I am now able to do my work. I recommend your Vegetable Compound to my friends who have troubles similar to mine and you may use these facts as a testimonial."—Mrs. C. F. PHILLIPS, Toomsboro, Ga.

Weak, nervous women make unhappy homes, their condition irritates both husband and children. It has been said that nine-tenths of the nervous prostration, nervous despondency, "the blues," irritability and backache arise from some displacement or derangement of a woman's system. Mrs. Phillips' letter clearly shows that no other remedy is so successful in overcoming this condition as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

House-Wide Porch Is Feature of This Six-Room English Home

There are three bedrooms, all large. In this model home plan, furnished The Sun by the Curtis Service Bureau, of Clinton, Ia., experts in interior and exterior woodwork.

One expects a cozy English house to nestle down into its surroundings, close to Mother Earth. In this particular example the snug, low effect is enhanced by the clipped eaves of the protecting roof, the second-story overhang, the sheltering hood over the entrance, the porch that is included beneath the main roof.

A front door with long wood panels and no glass is a characteristic touch. So are the chimney pots, and the louvre, which is only half-visible.

Large Living Porch

One of the most interesting things about this fascinating house is its living porch. To be sure, there is the ample one at the right, where one's guests may chat on hour or so, but the real outdoor living room is a house-wide porch across the rear, opening off both dining room and kitchen.

The living room on the front has a battery of four casements, and an entrance to the porch at the side. As you enter this room from the stair hall, through French doors, you face the glazed door leading to the side porch, with bookcases built-in, flanking the wall on each side.

Another pair of French doors lead to the dining room and on through is the open rear door, across the main porch. In the corner near these French doors there are corner china cabinets.

Several desirable wall spaces provide place for buffet, serving table or tea cart. A double action door admits to the kitchen. A pantry is dispensed with as being an unnecessary expenditure of space.

Kitchen is airy

Over the sink are a pair of casements.

These, with the door opening the children can play all day long to the living porch, set up a fire, while the worker in the kitchen keeps the air even in warmest days, an eye on them.

Three Bedrooms
The grade entrance is at the front of the kitchen, between it and the front hall. Openings are cut through so that the front door and main stair, and are easily accessible from the kitchen. The basement stairs are reached from the grade.

Upstairs, three bedrooms and an exceptionally large bath are comfortably arranged. Only one of the bedrooms is cross-ventilated. Each of the other two has a pair of casements in front, and as casements permit the use of the entire opening, plenty of air is admitted. There are three large closets, besides a tier of built-in trunks in one bedroom and a linen closet in the hall.

VOLUNTEER NAVAL RESERVE TRANSFERS

The time limit of submitting applications for transfer to the volunteer naval reserve by members of the naval reserve force has been extended to January 1, 1922, according to information received at the Charlestown navy yard from the Bureau of Navigation. At present a committee is at work at Washington on plans for a reorganization of the naval reserve force with the hope of establishing it on a sound basis. Due consideration will be given to reasons for submitting requests for transfer subsequent to the date, the latter states and it applies to both officers and men. The first naval district authorities, of which Lowell is a part, are notifying the naval reserve lists to that effect. The original time limit for filing applications was November 30.

German Embassy Again Opened to Receive Successor to Bernstorff

Arms Conference and Presence of Foreign Delegations Draw Interest From Congress

—Investigation of War Risk Bureau Now
On—Congress in Recess

(Special to The Sun)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 26.—For the first time in four years the German Embassy, up in Washington's most exclusive residential section, is again thrown open, and the seat of official diplomatic headquarters. They are here in a few days and the big stone mansion, just as more down-to-the-ground folks are putting their homes in order for a Washington winter. The accredited representative will be here in a few days and the place of the last ambassador, Count Von Bernstorff, who as representative of the Kaiser left Washington in 1917.

There is much to be done at the great house closed since that date, and the new representative, Baron Von Thurnmann, says Germany has but little money to spend on its embassy or on its staff. All the same an effort will be made to get the full staff here and diplomat work in running order by the first of January. When the baron landed in New York he was described as wearing clothes that had seen their best days, and was practically unaccompanied. The baron is commonly said to be the acting ambassador, but other statements are made to the effect that he is merely looking after the opening of the embassy and no credentials will be presented to the president until a charge d'affaires has been sent over from Germany, which, it is said, will be in December. The newly accredited ambassador, when he arrives must take his place at the lower end of the long line, for diplomatic rules require those of longest standing in the country to which they are assigned to take precedence over the new comers. Thus a country loses prestige and precedence by changing its envoys.

So much is being done in the way of entertaining foreign delegates to the conference that it seems a wonder they are left to themselves long enough to perform the duties for which they came. Dinners, luncheons, receptions follow each other in such rapid succession, that the wonder grows that they can stand the strain of the pace set by ambitious society leaders, and the men and women high in political life, who want to do them all possible honor.

Some one asked one of the visitors a day or so ago: "How do you manage under that nation quite overpowered the khaki of our own officers and the solemn black of our diplomats. We seem like a quiet and subdued people judging from clothes, but judging from the 'nerve' that Secretary Hughes and the other delegates are putting into the conference, it isn't clothes that tell the story.

On all sides one hears praises for the plans of the administration and the American delegates. Even the closing days of congress take on a comparative calm in this city of political talk and action.

The adjournment of congress is marked by hard knocks, bitterness between factions and much expunging of the official records. Clashes between republicans and democrats are scarcely less common than language far from parliamentary standard has been hurled across the so-called "dignified senate," only to be eliminated from the official records a few minutes later, but not till it has gone into newspapers and been scattered world wide. But while congress is at war with itself, world peace is rapidly advancing down at the Pan American building a couple of miles away from the straits on Capitol hill.

War Risk Bureau Investigation
Investigation of the War Risk bureau is now the paramount investigation in the mind of Washington. Accusations of extravagance, delay, neglect and inefficiency have been received and government officials are quoted as saying the New England headquarters in Boston will quickly fall under the sharp eyes of authorized investigators.

Chairman Madden of the house appropriation committee is taking steps to protect the veterans' fund and has made it clear that the committee proposes to see that the funds are used for the bona fide care of deserving veterans and not squandered in high salaries or otherwise wasted. "It is

Colonel Forbes, director of the bureau, states that there are now 100,000 men taking vocational training and approximately 400,000 who have made application. There are about 50,000 men in hospitals, most of whom receive compensation.

Among the amusing incidents of the week was the arrival here of an enormous turkey for the president's Thanksgiving dinner. It was amusing because the bird came by airplane, all dolled up in an embroidered blanket and goggles.

Secretary Weeks Cutting Down
Some one has suggested that now Secretary of War Weeks has reduced the clerical force of the army at the rapid-fire rate of 3000 a month, the president would do well to make his office a rotary one, and put him at the head of other government departments, till the low level is reached.

The Recess of Congress
Scarcely a New England congressman will be left here during the recess which began Wednesday and will continue till the 5th of December, when the regular session opens. The congress has not cleaned its slate very much and the wet sponge must be applied in a hurry when the winter session opens, else summer and primaries and even the 1922 congress will find the republican congress still trying to catch up, instead of having completed the program it so confidently announced would follow the election of a republican administration and congress. Factional fights among the republicans do not arouse well for a get-together next fall, and democrats smile broadly as they try to rip wider open the seams of republican party allegiance that are held together by a seemingly slender thread. There is no denying that the party in power is thoroughly worried over the outlook.

CHOW TSUCHI'S VIEWS

China Victim of Militarism, Not Pacifism, Says Leading Banker

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 26.—A man who combines in his intellectual equipment the bland wisdom of his old chief, Li Hung Chang, and the keen wit of his contemporary, Wu Ting Fang, Chow Tsuchi former minister of finance of China, has been sent by the Peking government to Washington to act as adviser extraordinary to the Chinese delegation during the conference on limitation of armaments. Afterward he will go to New York "on business," a term interpreted to mean that he will have something important to say to the international bankers with reference to the loans and the finances of the Asiatic republic.

The special envoy, who arrived here on the Admiral Liner Silver state, with a corps of secretaries and servants, said that China, by the world regarded as a victim of national pacifism, is in reality the victim of its own multitude of militarists.

Believed of her military gangs, and with a good strong central government established, China will be on firm foundations, financially and nationally, within three years," he declared. "And it at the conference the nations of the world show a willingness to abandon freebooting policies, there will be an end to the far eastern question."

Mr. Chow spent 11 years in the United States as a diplomatic attaché. He came first in the entourage of the famous Li Hung Chang, and later served with the famous Chinese minister to Washington, Wu Ting Fang. He is now a banker at Tien Tsin, and credited with being the most influential financier in China.

Lowell Hamer is a local electrician who specializes in old house wiring. He is an expert in his line and his motto is efficiency and low prices. THE LOCAL OFFICIALS BELIEVE this to be far from open warfare in commercial channels, and believe that eventually all wage difficulties will be straightened out to the satisfaction of all concerned.

The situation in Lynn and in Brockton is reported to be better, and there is no apparent indication at the present time that a big wage reduction is contemplated right away. Those interested in the boot and shoe industry say that a 20 per cent. cut in wages might be made under any consideration, although the unions are directly opposed to any such action.

ARMS CONFERENCE MAY FAIL

Judging from the present outlook, it would not be surprising to find the arms conference, which opened at Washington with such a flourish of trumpets, go to pieces without accomplishing anything.

Already the jealousies of the trading powers of Europe have become pronounced; and Lord Curzon, British foreign minister, has made a speech in which he declares against the pretensions of France as to the necessity of maintaining a very large army as a precaution against attack by Germany. The British delegation is also making the claims of France by every means possible, in the conference and outside. The leaders claim that it is of no use to reduce naval armaments if any European power be allowed to maintain a larger army that would threaten the safety of any of the nations that have agreed to reduce their naval power.

France has also expressed a desire to maintain large submarines, and there is nothing in the line of armaments that England is more opposed to than submarines having a long cruising capacity. This is natural enough, inasmuch as her ships are on every sea and liable to destruction by high powered submarines. There is little prospect of any satisfactory result from the Washington conference, if any power be allowed to maintain an army of a million and a half and also a squadron of powerful submarines. British statesmen have gone so far as to say that the French submarines are intended for use in attacking the British navy. This statement may be based upon imagination, or fear, such as France is credited with in her claim that Germany is getting ready to attack her.

There is another heated controversy on in the conference over China, whose delegates threaten to abandon the conference if the British plan for the treatment of China be adopted. The proposition already made provides for the maintenance of Chinese railroads by a consortium of the great powers. This, in addition to the other policies to be adopted, would practically mean the internationalization of China.

China has been conceded some minor points but the main issue is unsettled.

It is apparent also from the various discussions that England will not abandon her alliance with Japan unless she can obtain a substitute alliance with the United States, or otherwise, a triple entente, including England, Japan, and the United States, not only on the reduction of naval power but also upon Far Eastern questions.

While the powers seemed to accept the proposition laid down by Secretary Hughes, with much good will and readiness, yet it appears that when an effort is made to bring them to a definite agreement, they have so many objections and modifications to offer, and so many conditions to insist upon, that no concrete agreement can be reached. Whether there is any means of bringing them to definite terms, either in a treaty or otherwise, remains to be seen. At the present time, the high hopes entertained for naval disarmament by the great powers of the world are rapidly vanishing.

In the midst of the conflicting claims and the apparent disintegration of the conference, the report is given out that if the plans outlined by Secretary Hughes should be carried out, the United States might cut the war loans in half for the benefit of the European creditors. We do not see on what authority any such statement can be made. President Harding has no right to make such a statement; neither has Secretary Hughes; and yet this is one of the announcements sent out simultaneously from Washington and London. Can it be that the powers are to get such a stupendous bribe for entering into an agreement for the reduction of armaments which would benefit themselves quite as much as the United States?

YOUR POWER

Tears came to the eyes of Marshal Foch, and for 15 minutes he forgot that he is at a banquet in Boston, as he talks to a war veteran, blinded in both eyes. It is an admirable illustration on the human character of the greatest Frenchman, who was entrusted with the lives of 150,000 soldiers. The blinded veteran is Lieutenant Guy Elvin, who says, "You pity him for his loss of sight. Yet Elvin is studying international law at Harvard, a task that is extremely difficult even to those with perfect sight. It is an inspiring instance of what man can accomplish, despite any handicap, if he keeps his fighting spirit alive."

Ren Welch, the comedian, who lost his sight a year ago, did he become discouraged give up the fight? No. In the present war, Welch, including the names of President R. L. Welch turned his own eyes to the policy that would have paid him $10,000 in a lump sum or $15 a week for the rest of his life.

Now Welch is traveling about the country, headlining in each city, as in the old days. He even refuses to carry a cane.

A friend, dressed as a policeman, leads him out on the stage. Seated on a bench, the friend says that he forgets that he is blind and that he is an audience with a simple purpose. Blindness would make most of us downhearted. But Welch says that he has only made him more anxious to cheer up others.

"If," says he, "it is too short to suit work me." The cases of Ren Welch and Lieutenant Elvin should change the mental attitude of any man who has become discouraged by a handicap. The great men of history became Viennese practitioner of plastic surgery, who lately arrived in New York with the avowed intention of helping to pay Austria's debt to the American people by offering his services to hospital clinics throughout the country. Readers of "The Sun" will recall that some 18 years ago Dr. Lorenz came to the United States to cure Miss Lolita Armour, daughter of one of the great meat packers, who was suffering from a most unusual case of hip dislocation. Miss Lolita, always remembered affectionately by sympathizing men and women, is now Mrs. John J. Mitchell, Jr., a happy wife and doubly so because of the wonderful work of Lorenz, "the knifeless" surgeon. The Viennese practitioner is thrice welcome at this time. He comes on an errand of mercy and is sure to receive due homage from a grateful people who recognize the value of his great scientific genius in an important branch of surgery.

THE STEEL INDUSTRY

Will the steel industry suffer when battleship building is curtailed? Well to some extent at first, but not as much as most people expect.

Northwestern Steel Company is the leading American producer of steel war materials, but its investment in munition plants is less than 5 per cent of its total property investment.

In normal times, less than 1 per cent of total American steel production goes for armaments. That is not much to lose. It would be more than made up by the increased peacetime demand for steel in a world rendered more productive by a lessening of its war-preparedness burden.

INTERSTATE ROADS

Jobs for 150,000 men, building 6261 miles of roads, are expected to follow the recent passage of the federal highway act.

The cost of the new roads will be about $12,000 a mile. The nation's investment in highways is many times as big as the investment in railroads.

With the national government sharing with states the expense of road construction, we may be headed for the time when Uncle Sam will take over the main interstate highways controlling them from Washington with uniform laws.

And now it seems that a certain element in our citizenship think their votes are thrown away when given to any candidate who is not an accomplished artist in the use of the black brush.

There were 171 candidates on the primary ballot. Only 519 on the ballot for December 13. Even precinct 3 of ward seven will have no difficulty in counting that ballot.

Coasting accidents will make up for the decrease in auto accidents during winter. The reckless we have always with us.

Of course the Japs are willing to let us feed the starving Chinese any time we see fit.

Precinct officers may have to take a civil service examination hereafter.

"Near-bier" was correctly spelled after all.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

Beating the railroad and street trolley lines is somewhat of a joy to many people. A few had the chance a night or so ago and promptly availed themselves of it, although I suppose they should not be obliged to pay. About eleven o'clock as the car going up Christian Hill was turning a corner, the trolley tipped over the wire with a jerk. Upon examination it was found the rope had snapped part way up and the chance for repairing it in a short time appeared slim. The conductor came out, climbed up on top of the car, slipped and fell to the ground. He was seriously hurt and wanted to make another attempt to gain the roof. A younger and more athletic man climbed to the roof and the work of fixing the trolley began. In the meantime about one-half the occupants got out of the car and walked away. The elder of the conductor's punch could not be heard near the finger of the conductor. The cry seemed to be, "We can't wait all night to be taken home. If we have to walk we don't have to pay."

If you hear some little kiddie talking about that great big turkey, that fine cranberry sauce or any of the fixings that go with a Thanksgiving dinner, you might consider him one of the lucky youngsters who attended the Salvation Army bazaar. Over 300 Lowell youngsters paraded at the dinner given Thursday and each of them has voted the Salvation Army to be all right. And the members of the organization who worked so hard to make the affair a success felt well repaid for their efforts. It wasn't easy for the "Salts" to stand all day, but they were willing to make that sacrifice if the public would contribute the nickel and dime.

Michael J. Dowd, court officer in the district court and a former city official, is an enthusiastic defender of the new charter. While the returns from the primaries were staggering in many cases, remarks were heard in the purchasing agent's office, where the reporters were on duty, relative to the charter's defects. Mr. Dowd was on duty in his usual capacity as assistant to Lawrence Cummings, Boston globe correspondent, and it may be said that he allowed criticism to pass unheeded and unchallenged. During the slack hours he was kept busy answering these attacks, but he emerged a victor from every tilt.

SEEN AND HEARD

Many a man has died without a struggle who found it impossible to live that way.

It is easy for a woman with false teeth to bite off more molasses candy than she can chew.

When compared with the tailor-made woman, appearances are against the self-made man.

A woman can stand being scolded out yachting because it makes some other woman who wasn't asked sicker with envy.

Miss Alta Norton, living on a farm in Burton county, Kan., travels 10 miles and passes through three counties on her way to and from school each day.

Where 15 English women students come forward in any one district, the British ministry of labor is empowered to institute classes in cookery and general domestic work.

Madrid Appeal

The tramp shambled after the smartly dressed man carrying a prosperous-looking bag. "Give us a couple of pennies, please," he pleaded. "Just something to get some bread. Think what it is to be friendless, despised and hated by all." "Shut up, you fool!" said the man with the bag. "I'm a tax collector."

She Was Clever

They met at a dance and after a few dances together, sat down. Silence followed. He looked at her, she looked at him. More silence. Then at last George asked:

"Daisy, will you be my—?" "O, George," cried Daisy, "this is so sudden! Give me a little time—" "Partner for the next dance?" concluded George. "To get my breath back," also continued Daisy between her puffs. "I haven't quite recovered from the last jazz yet."

The European Way

Secretary Hoover said at a banquet: "One difference between Europe and America is that over there they like to keep you in your place—stationary, you know, while here we like to see a man rise. The European idea is pretty well illustrated by the remarks of Muggins. Muggins on his return from the pub one Saturday night said to his wife: 'I believe in manly pride and reasonable ambition, but when Sergt. Todd with his cork leg takes to carryin' a cane besides, it looks to me as if it was tryin' to climb out of the station what Divine Providence sunk him into.'"

Natural Causes

A Scotsman was journeying on the top of a London omnibus, when he was overjoyed at seeing a shilling lying in the gutter below. Of course, he immediately alighted, ran back a short distance, picked up the coin, and was running to catch the bus when he was accidentally knocked down by another car. Unfortunately, he was killed, and at the inquest which followed things looked very black for the chauffeur of the car. Then at length one witness mentioned that he deceased was of Scotch nationality and related the circumstances which led to the accident. The proceedings were then terminated by exonerating the driver from all blame with the verdict, "Death from natural causes."

Enjoyed the Joke

Mrs. Robinson, Theodore Roosevelt's sister, told the following good one on Tuesday. The White House telephone rang and Roosevelt answered it without waiting to ring for a servant. His face assumed a listening look, and he said, "No, I am not at home. I am Archie's father." A second call came and he laughed aloud, and then said: "All right, I will tell him. I won't forget." He turned to the receiver, he turned to me half sheepishly, but very much amused. "That's a good joke on any president," he said. "You may have realized that there was a little boy on the other end of the line, and he started the conversation by saying: 'In that you, Archie? And I replied, 'No, it is Archie's father.' Whereupon he answered with evident disgust: 'Well, you'll do. I'll tell Archie to come to supper. Now don't forget.'"

The Deserter

I'm not a "tired business man." Yet every time I try To go home for Thanksgiving Day, The ol' man shows a fly.

I think I'll take a day off soon And visit my home town; An invitation comes to me From good old Colonel Brown.

He writes me in his quaint, old style That used to make me laugh; "Come home, young man, and see your folks; 'They'll kill the fatted calf!'"

That letter sort of hit me Right here between the eyes! Rebuke was hurled in those lines— It gave me one surprise.

Ho, hum! I guess it's up to me To travel back some day, And so I'll try and fix it up If I can get away.

There's lots to do before I go, There's folks to see and sell; And I must close that deal for coal With Murray of the "L."

And when I've got to take a trip To little old New York And straighten out some mortgages My partner made with Roke.

I know the folks in my old town I would treat me like a king; If I could once get down there I'd be the whole darned thing.

But there's that pesky lumber That must be shipped to China; It seems as if my work would keep Me tied to this old burg.

And so you see I'm not quite sure And can't really say Just when I'll have a chance to go Back home Thanksgiving Day.

DIVERSE VERSES at the ARMS CONFERENCE

By Berton Braley

GENTLEMEN FROM THE FLOWERY KINGDOM

There were three charming Chinamen who sat and talked to me Tsai Ting-kan and Hawk Ling Yen and Thomas King, Litt. D. For Tsai Ting-kan's an admiral, a bluff sea-dog is he, But what he chiefly talked about was Chinese poetries.

And Dr. Hawk Ling Yen's a man of very high degree, Perhaps M. D. or Ph. D. or maybe J.L. D., While Thomas King's a credit to his justly well-known nation As able secretary of the Chinese delegation.

I didn't meet the delegates, despite my earnest plea, But still, I had a merry time with these advisers three— Ah, yes, we sat in pleasant chat and sipped our Chinese tea, Tsai Ting-kan and Hawk Ling Yen and Thomas King and me.

The admiral, while balancing his cup upon his knee, Recited Chinese verses writ in 1919 B. C. And Hawk Ling Yen and Thomas King were fluent as could be In intoning ancient Chinese songs with great vivacities.

Our talk of Eastern politics and policies was free, They did not touch disarmament, but dodged it quiet-lee, And so we sipped and smoked and ate—and take it straight from me, Although I didn't get a clue on what the Chinese plan to do, There's mighty few more pleasant things than drinking Chinese tea With Tsai Ting-kan and Hawk Ling Yen, and Thomas King, Litt. D.

SPEAKING OF THE FRENCH

At the French headquarters the delegates Are always getting in fearful straits; They lose their sticks and their coats and hats And often their collars and ties and spats, And then for succor and aid they call To the girl at the desk in the outer hall; And she straightens them out when they're all awhirl, For that Girl in the Hall is a capable girl!

At the French Headquarters the delegates Stalk up and down at various gaits, And you think they're stating important news, When they're merely trying to find their shoes. The girl at the desk informs them where Their stuff is kept—and she leads them there, And laughs exhibiting teeth of pearl— For the Girl in the Hall is a humorous girl!

At the French headquarters the delegates Speak only French—while the girl translates; She guards the portals with tact and zest And sees that the diplomat's clothes are pressed; She chatters in English or French at choice With a charming manner and dulcet voice, And you leave the place in a sort of whirl, For the Girl in the Hall is a beautiful girl!

NIX ON THE SOCIETY STUFF

It is hard to weigh a question when you're ill with indigestion And your mind is slow and dull from lack of sleep; When your thoughts are incommoded by a stomach overloaded, You can't do your best by problems that are deep; When your appetite is pining from continually dining Or from overmuch of supper and of lunch, You're not rightly in condition to do justice to a mission Which needs clarity, vitality and punch.

Yet the hardworked delegations who decide the fate of nations And who hold our very future in their hands Are most fearfully encumbered with a list of dates unnumbered Which the etiquette of Washington demands. Social stuff should be diminished till the conference is finished Last the hopes of all humanity should fail; And the clouds of war should thicken just because of too much chicken, Too much lobster, too much terrapin and quail.

PHONES WORKING AGAIN NO BIG DROP
Central is "Connected Up" IN TURKEY

Boston Dealers Say Wholesale Price May Drop to 35 Cents

Lowell Dealers Allow Turkey
Will be Cheaper at Christmas

But the Festive Bird Will Not Drop to 35 Cents Wholesale

Boston marketmen are of the opinion that many a young "turk" has gobbled his last gobble and will be on the way to the turkey mart in a short time. And these same marketmen claim the foregoing being the case, the price of turkey meat will be driven up to 40 cents wholesale.

However, what is the Boston market doing? The Boston market doesn't seem to bother the people of this city as a whole or keep them up nights "thinking about" it. While the market Lowell marketmen are willing to buy at the slightest bid and say the turkeys might be a little dear, they were at Thanksgiving time more than willing to shake their heads and want to know how anyone can let at this time what the prices will be. One of the turkeys the owner beamed on me was sold for 35 cents, and in response to a question would have sold for 35 or 40 cent here: "It's nice of you to feel so happy and joke so much about things in general, but you are way off on the turkey market."

Turkey Market Short

All marketmen said the turkey market was too short this year and many claimed they lost money by not buying early enough. The wholesale price in the neighborhood of 53 cents per pound. For this reason the local merchants do not see how the birds will drop on an average of 20 cents per pound.

They all admit there are plenty of turkeys in the country alive and ready to be killed. In Boston the men said the farmer held onto his livestock in the hope of creating a short market. Now the farmer are afraid they created such a short market the quantity dumped on the market in the next few weeks will bring the price so low the profits on short selling will be nullified.

Lowell merchants say the farmers are weaker. Lowell merchants say they do not know, but think more birds should be on the market for Christmas time than there were a Thanksgiving.

Lowell markets report an increase over last year's Thanksgiving sales. One or two say the sales were about the same, but would have been better if money was not so tight, as more people seemed to purchase this year than last.

Many family heads planned to have the Thanksgiving turkey tomorrow.

thinking they might be able to make a better buy on the leftovers. There may be so in certain respects and there is no doubt some real choice turkey meat may be obtained at a great reduction over Wednesday, but the quantity this year is not so great as in other years. Many smaller dealers took orders for regular customers and did not attempt to buy in large lots. The loss resulting from overbuying cuts the profit made on sale to such a small point the risk is not worth the return.

Never Reach Low Point
C. H. Willis, of the Willis market, said, "Turkeys may be a bit cheaper at Christmas time than they were at Thanksgiving. They will never reach the 35 or 40 cent point that you quote as coming from Boston. Each year at this time we hope for the best, but Christmas does not seem to bring about a marked change. We have been fooled too many times in the past to place much stock in price quoted at this time. As I look at turkeys should be cheaper. Here at some of my reasons. There is plenty of grain in the country at the present time. The farmer says turkeys are better in cold weather than they do

Christmas as they have another month in which to eat. They are cooped more and do not run around the barn yards with snow on the ground.

A. H. Barlow of Batlow's market John street said, "Well I don't know what to say. The turkey problem is a big one and is governed by the com-dillions of the market. Take for stance in Boston when the market short. About any price wanted may be obtained. When there are only a few crates of turkeys on the market a hundred dollars to bid for them the price is high. If you don't want to pay a high price asked, there is a man standing first and foremost in the market, a man right next to you ready to give price and more too, if it is asked.

Lowell If there is a large consignment of birds the field is limited. There is only a certain few to whom the goods can be sold. It is a case of supply and demand, I should think prices ought to be a little lower than they were.
Thanksgiving as the birds will father and ready to be killed. I do think a price such as quoted in Houston will ever be reached. Business this year was about the same as last. There hadn't been so many out of work. I think we would have done better."

Promises a Slight Decrease

E. J. Hines, manager of the John Curley market on John street, said: "Don't let anybody kid you that prices will be as low as quoted in Boston. The market was short this year, that was the reason prices were high. I think, however, there may be a slight decrease by Christmas time."

More birds will be ready for the market as the farmers realize this is the last chance to get rid of them. They wouldn't want to be stuck with a wild flock of live birds on their hands, but business was about the same as it a year ago."

Summing up the reports of both

Boston and Lowell marketmen it is safe to say the prices on Christmas turkeys will be shaved a little. Boston men may be quite optimistic this condition does not seem to prevail in Lowell.

CHELSEA, Nov. 26.—Four men held
up an automobile from the First National bank of Boston here today
and stole payroll funds said to amount
to $28,000. They escaped in an automobile that carried a New York registration number. One of the men was thought to have been wounded by a shot fired by the bank messenger.

Score of Shots Exchanged
The holdup took place in front of the office of the A. G. Walton & Co.
shoe factory, on Spruce street. A score of shots were exchanged.
The bank automobile, carrying the
weekly payroll for the factory, had stopped outside the office. Two messengers stepped from the machine
with the bag containing the money.
As they started to cross the sidewalk
bandits. One of the latter snatched
the money bag and fled in their automobile. The others followed him, firing as they went.

A messenger who had remained inside the bank car, opened fire on the robbers. While the exchange of shots
was in progress, the bandits disappeared in the direction of Everett.

Officials of the shoe company said
the stolen bag contained $28,141.

Woman in Bandit Car
The local police later found a wit-
was a woman in the rear seat of the
robbers' automobile.

Col. Fote, head of the state police sent word broadcast that all the forces
of his office should be on the alert to apprehend the fugitives.

Lowell Police Notified
The Lowell police were notified of
the holdup this noon and immediately spread a dragnet through the district
in the hope of apprehending the band-
its. All the hospitals in this city
and nearby towns were warned by the police to report to them at once if any person suffering from shot wounds were taken there for treatment.

WARNING TO CONGRESS

Must Guard Against Freak
Legislation Aimed at Funds
Saved by Naval Holiday

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—The contemplated saving of several hundred
millions of dollars through the limitation of armaments will result in hundreds of attempted raids on the United States treasury with freak legislation," said Representative Fess, chairman of the republican congressional committee, in a statement today.
"Congress will have to be alert to its guard to forestall in its ineptness
freak legislation aimed at the funds
saved by the administration's disarmament policy," he said.

An ever-growing popular demand
for greater national interest in education, one of the most important features of the coming generation, demands that call on our resources," he said.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Nov. 26.—Nearly one
half of the 700 block of Broad street
and the entire eastern side of the 200
block of Jackson street, both in the heart of Augusta's business section,
were destroyed by fire early today
with a total loss of about $2,000,000.
The fire started about 2 o'clock in the five story Johnson building, at the corner of Jackson and Broad streets and was not brought under control until daylight after fire departments from Savannah, Atlanta, Macon, Columbia, Charleston, Aiken and Walhalla had been called upon for assistance.

The following buildings were in the
path of the flames: Johnson building;
total loss; Harrison building, total
loss; Albion hotel, total loss; and Gen-
esta hotel, partly burned.

The offices and plant of the Augusta
Chronicle in the Harrison building were completely lost. Other business establishments in Broad street destroyed were Liggett's drug store; F.
E. Ferris & Co.; John J. Miller & Co.;
Gardelle's drug store and men's clothing department of J. B. White & Co.

While the main fire was raging another broke out in the 30 block of Jackson street, gutting three buildings.

Belief was expressed by Chief Fireman Teasdale that this fire had no connection with the main fire.
The origin of the principal fire had
not been determined early today.

TANNERY SHUTS DOWN

American Hide and Leather Company's Plant in Perry Street, Closed

The large plant of the American Hide and Leather Co. in Perry street shut down last night for an indefinite period. The action of the company in shutting down the plant follows the announcement of a reduction in wages in all departments, which is supposed to go into effect next Monday. The reason given by the officials of the company for the suspension of operations is lack of orders.

Last Monday notices were posted in all departments announcing a reduction in wages varying from 10 to 35 per cent, effective Monday, Nov. 23.
On the following Wednesday evening a special meeting of the Leather Workers' union was held, but what action, if any, was taken, was not made public. Another special meeting of the union is scheduled to be held next Monday night. The shutdown affects between 300 and 500 hands.

ELIMINATE RED TAPE TO SAVE LIFE OF BOY

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—Red tape of Ellis Island was ripped to shreds today to save the life of 11 year old Manuel Salones, who arrived from Panama on the steamship Colon late yesterday. In the event the present peace negotiations collapse, is raised by the morning newspapers after the meeting yesterday of Promior Lloyd
George and Sir James Craig, Ulster
premier. In this conference the British cabinet chief informed Sir James
that Sinn Fein Ireland had refused to swear allegiance to the crown in return for an Ulster agreement to enter an all-Ireland parliament. The seriousness of the situation resulting from this refusal calls forth the reference to a possible recurrence of hostilities.

"The government cannot engage in civil war with the Irish nation, if
the people of Great Britain are determined that there shall be no war,"
declares the Daily News, adding:
"That is the dominant factor of the situation."
The Daily Herald, the labor organ,
says: "A new war would outrage the
morals of the whole world, and would never receive the sanction of the British people."
The trades union and labor movement must resist to the utmost, further reference to the arbitrament of force.

YALE BOWL TO SEAT 117,000

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 26.—Much interest was being manifested today in the plans announced last night for increasing the seating capacity of the Yale bowl by 50,000, which would enable approximately 117,000 persons to witness Yale football contests.
The proposed addition to the bowl would be in the form of a balcony over the upper section of seats and the premenade, Charles A. Ferry, Yale
'11, designer of the bowl, said. The balcony would be supported by concrete arches.

Against Renewal of War-

Breakdown Imminent as Result of Sinn Fein Refusal to

LONDON, Nov. 26.—(By the Associated Press)—A chorus of vigorous protest against renewal of warfare in Ireland in the event the present peace
negotiations collapse, is raised by the
morning newspapers after the meeting yesterday of Promior Lloyd
George and Sir James Craig, Ulster
premier. In this conference the British cabinet chief informed Sir James
that Sinn Fein Ireland had refused to swear allegiance to the crown in return for an Ulster agreement to enter

morals of the whole world, and would never receive the sanction of the British people."

The trades union and labor movement must resist to the utmost, further reference to the arbitrament of

The men of all parties are urged by
the Daily Express to rally to the defence of an Irish settlement.

The Westminster Gazette says it believes the British people are "quite determined not to fight anybody in Ireland in the interests of anybody
else in Ireland."

Further developments are awaited
with the keenest anxiety, the newspapers generally finding little comfort
in the outlook beyond the fact that

NARROW ESCAPE

A large truck, said to be owned by Theodore Thomas of North street, Boston, nearly plunged over the bridge
into the canal at the junction of Broadway and Suffolk street shortly before
noon today when the driver, whose identity could not be learned, suddenly swerved his steering wheel to one
side to avoid colliding with another machine that was rounding the corner.

The truck broke through the fence
and one of its front wheels was well
over the edge of the bridge before it came to a full stop. Several persons who witnessed the accident say that the operator had a miraculous escape
from being pitched into the canal.
According to several persons who
saw the mishap, the driver in trying to get out of the way of another car that was coming out Broadway at a swift rate of speed turned his wheel too much, heading the machine for the canal. He immediately applied the emergency brake, but before he could bring the truck, which was empty, to
a full stop, it broke through the wooden fence and one of its forward wheels
hung over the bridge. With the assistance of two other trucks the machine shortly after was pulled back
to the street and driven off on its own
power.

FORMER TREASURERS OF ILLINOIS SUED

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Nov. 26.—(By the Associated Press)—Suits for accounting against five former state treasurers were started today by Attorney General Edward J. Brundage.
The suits cover the six terms preceding that of the present treasurer, Edward E. Miller, and are directed against all state treasurers who held office between 1909 and 1921. State Auditor Andrew Russell, who was treasurer twice during the period is defendant in two suits.
The other former treasurers involved are: Governor Len Small,
Lieut. Gov. Fred E. Sterling, William
Ryan, Jr., and Edward E. Mitchell.
Bondsmen of all the former treasurers were made defendants.
Disclosures made by the investigation of the state treasury which resulted in indictment of Governor Small, Lieut. Gov. Sterling, and Vernon Curtis, banking associate of Governor Small, last July, furnished the evidence on which the civil suits were based, the attorney general's office announced.

The Sangamon county grand jury probe which ended in the indictment of Small, Sterling and Curtis, was the beginning of a searching investigation into treasury affairs lasting for months.

Lieut. Governor Sterling is defendant in a suit which alleges that $10-000,000 of state money alleged to have been used by Treasurer Len Small and the late Senator Edward C. Curtis for their own personal profit, continued under the control of Curtis after Sterling, Small's successor, became treasurer.

The bill against Governor Small charges that interest unaccounted for the situation.

DEADLOCK IN LYNN SHOE CONTROVERSY

LYNN, Nov. 26.—A deadlock between the Lynn Shoe Manufacturers' association and the Joint Council, United Shoe Workers of America, over the employers' proposal for a 20 per cent. deduction in wages, was indicated today. Negotiations between the two sides appeared to have been interrupted in statements issued by each.

A committee of five which conducted conference in behalf of the manufacturers stated that the union council wanted to investigate the employers' books and factory operations as a preliminary to any plan for wage revision.

"We do not intend to have workmen's committees point out to us how our factories should be run," the manufacturers' statement said.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—(By the Associated Press)—Withdrawal of foreign postoffices in China was informally agreed to in principle today by the Far Eastern committee of the Washington conference and a resolution to that effect will be drafted by a sub-committee to work out details of the plan. The question of extra territoriality, the gradual abolition of which was agreed to in principle yesterday was not considered by the nine nations represented at today's sitting.

Would Make Ireland Same as Canada

TURNBRIIDGEWELLS, England, Nov. 26.—(By the Associated Press)
—Lord Chancellor Birkenhead, speaking at a mass meeting here today, said he could not confidently predict that the Irish question would be satisfactorily solved. The lord chancellor said what the British government had offered the Sinn Fein was that, with one or two reservations, Ireland should be placed in exactly the same position as Canada.
"Whether the offer will be accepted I cannot say," he said.

the process of tallies such votes. In view of the fact that the specifications contain the word "count" as well as the word "tabulation" could reasonably well be resolved to mean the word "count."

The election law provides certain machinery for the correction of errors in contested primaries and elections wherein it endeavors to provide against the element of mistake in counting ballots, by authorizing citizens of a ward or precinct to petition for a recount of votes. Now such a recount the statute states in particular language that the petitioners shall specify that the records made by the election officers are erroneous, "specifying wherein they deem them to be in error and that they believe a recount of ballots cast in such precinct or town will affect the election of one or more candidates voted for." Specifying the candidates.

It appears clear, in view of the statutory provisions in relation to recounts, and the petition for recount filed by voters in the matter of Jeremiah J. O'Sullivan, that your board can only consider the recount of votes cast for Mr. O'Sullivan. This view is confirmed by the following statutory language:

"All recounts shall be upon the questions designated in the statement filed, and no other count shall be made, or allowed to be made, or other information taken, or allowed to be taken, from the ballots of such recount."

In conclusion, therefore, it is my opinion that the sole question before your board in the matter of such petition is to determine whether the count of ballots at the recent primary for Jeremiah J. O'Sullivan is correct; that is, whether the record or copies of records made by the election officers are erroneous in the count of votes credited to Mr. O'Sullivan.

Sincerely yours,
WILLIAM D. REGAN,
City Solicitor.

Commissioners' Interpretation

The commissioners infer from this opinion that they are required to recount only the votes cast for the petitioners and for no others. When asked whether they would recount the other candidates' votes, the commissioners were unable to give an official answer, as all members of the board must be present to take any action on the matter. The question will be taken up in all probability, before the mayoralty recount begins. The time for this recount has been set for Monday at 10 a. m.

The members of the commission express confidence that they will finish the mayoralty recount on Monday, and will be ready to proceed with the school committee recount, petitioned for by Thomas Garry, on Tuesday morning at the same hour. The recount of this vote, however, will take more than a day, and perhaps two or three days.

Want Extra Precinct

The following letter in regard to an additional precinct in ward seven was received by the election commission:

Lowell, Mass., November 23, 1921.
Election Commission,
Lowell, Mass.

Having witnessed the commission's action that took place at precinct 3 of ward 7 at the primary election held on November 22, when over 1600 votes were cast, may I suggest to your honorable board the absolute necessity of providing an additional precinct in the seventh ward. We would also recommend that said precinct be located at the junction of Riverside street and Mammoth road.

Respectfully yours,
WILLIAM F. CRONIN,
CORNELLUS F. CRONIN.

In reference to this letter, the commissioners say that it will be impossible to add any precincts this year. The law provides that new precincts must be created by vote of the municipal council before July 1 of any given year. It was planned by the commission to add about 20 new precincts this year, but the old law, which called for a precinct for each 1000 voters, was changed by the legislature last year to read that 1500 and the 2000 voters. According to law it will be necessary to create a new precinct in ward 8 next year, since precinct 1 of that ward contains over the number of voters allowed by law, but for the remainder of this year the only thing that can be done is to add to the size of the polling booths in the large precincts, and this may be done in one or two instances. There has been great deal of talk among local legislators to the effect that the law which puts the creation of precincts in the hands of the municipal council may be changed during the next session, and full power vested in the election commission.

Same Old Question

To those who think that the license question has been finally disposed of, the following question, which is to appear on the ballot at the city election, may be interesting:

"Shall licensees be granted for the sale of certain non-intoxicating beverages in this city?"

The voters will be given an opportunity to express themselves on this question on Dec. 13.

The award is in the form of a parchment with the war department eagle and the great seal of the United States, and says:

"The war department of the United States of America recognizes in this award for distinguished service the loyalty, energy and efficiency in the performance of the war work by which the Cadillac Motor car company and materially in obtaining victory for the arms of the United States of America in the war with the Imperial German government and the Imperial and royal Austro-Hungarian governments."

The players are men wintering at Sacramento. The contractor doing the remodeling of the park offered them jobs and they grabbed them. PRE-PRIMARY MEETING BY ELECTION BOARD AND CANDIDATES

Mayorality Candidates Expressed Their Individual Views as to Conduct of Primaries, Extension of Time, Lighting, Policing, Etc.

Since there was more or less excitement created yesterday relative to the demand of Jeremiah J. O'Sullivan that the election commission produce the records of the meeting held Monday afternoon of this week in the Aldermanic chamber, at which the members of the election commission and five of the mayoralty candidates were present, a statement of just what occurred at that session might be interesting.

Mr. O'Sullivan opened the discussion, acting as spokesman for the other candidates present. He explained that the suggestion had been made that the candidates get together with the commission, that all might have an opportunity of expressing their opinions as to any additional measures which should be taken at the primaries. He said that owing to the size of the ballot and the number of names on the voting lists that there seemed likely to be some congestion, owing to the hours set. It was the opinion of the candidates that it would be a good idea to get together and exchange views as to what, if any, extra provisions should be made, such as extension of hours, better lights in the booths, police protection inside and outside the booths, and any other question that might arise, so that there would be no conflict of authority. They all wanted a fair deal. While Mr. O'Sullivan was speaking the mayor entered, and the speaker repeated his remarks for His Honor's benefit.

Chairman McOsker stated that there had been a communication sent to the commission by the mayor and asked Clerk Allard to read it. The communication seemed to be a request that the commission extend the hour of closing the polls to 10 o'clock on account of the great vote which was expected.

Mr. O'Sullivan then stated he thought the board favored granting the extension. The mayor stated that he had received many requests to have the hours extended. He had previously suggested an earlier hour for opening the polls, but the city solicitor had said that the charter would not permit the polls to be opened before noon. The next best thing was to keep the polls open later in the evening. Personally, he made no great difference to him, and he said he would withdraw the request if the other candidates disagreed with him. He had provided for proper police protection; the list of officers assigned to duty had already been submitted to the commission and was subject to their approval. He was perfectly willing to make any change they might deem advisable, and would not mind more men or do anything else they might suggest. He was willing to take any precautionary measure possible.

The other candidates present were asked to state their views. Mr. Scott said that all kinds of stories were going around, but that he gave no credence to any of them. He had no thought of making any objection to the arrangements. He thought the mayor's suggestions good, however, as some of the precincts were very large. He felt that counting votes by candlelight would be a great drawback to the precinct officers, and that better light would expedite the returns.

Mr. Donnelly said that he favored the extension in hours, as he felt it would be necessary in order to allow all who wished to vote to exercise their privilege. He asked it with the time of closing extended, everyone inside and outside the booth would be allowed to vote. After it was established that he meant these in line, the chairman answered in the affirmative. He asked if a lunch time for the election officers had been arranged, and was told that it would be. He then said that any decision of the committee would be agreeable to him. Mr. Brown said that he favored times as outlined. He favored cooperation with the election commission in order to relieve any congestion. He felt that they all believed there should be no interference, and the election laws should be enforced. The police officers should keep everyone away from the voters, and that no workers for the candidates should be allowed to interfere. He wished to co-operate with the board. He thought

This Fruit Medicine Restores Health

The increase in the number of persons suffering from Nervousness is world-wide; due, in a measure, to the reaction following the war. Sleeplessness, Headaches, Mental Depression, Rheumatism, Nervous Dyspepsia, Bad Heart Action, are the results of a disturbed condition of the Nervous System.

The nerves and the blood are so intimately, so vitally, connected that the condition of one is bound to affect the condition of the other. If the blood is laden with impurities, it is impossible to have strong, steady nerves.

The first essential in treating nervousness is to purify and enrich the blood. This "FRUIT-A-LIVES" will do.

"FRUIT-A-LIVES" stimulates the bowels, kidneys and skin and purifies the blood. "Fruit-a-lives" improves appetite and digestion and insures food being properly digested, thus enabling the blood to carry wholesome nourishment to build up the body, particularly the nerves.

Men and women who take "Fruit-a-lives" for some form of nervousness—because they cannot eat or sleep or work or enjoy life—say that this fruit medicine is simply marvellous in its action.

More than ever this year, are they filled with fun. They have a lot of new song numbers, and the inimitable line of foolery which has always distinguished them.

There are few delineators of the southern negro who depict the type as correctly as do the Bowman brothers. The quaintness of delivery and peculiarity of style in singing make them stand apart from the ordinary lot of imitators of the southland. Their songs and stories are new, and with them come the genuine Dixie—where the real negro is rapidly vanishing.

Raymond Bond will come to town in his delightful playlet, "Remnants," a quaint, homespun comedy in which Mr. Bond plays the part of a rural salesman, endeavoring to dispose of women's hosiery to the sophisticated buyer in a big city department store. "Remnants" is skillfully written. In his work Mr. Bond is likened to William Hodge and Sol Smith Russell.

Sonia Haraban and Chas. O'Grady have just staged a terpsichorean novelty which has, as its climax, "Aztec Indian Love." There are four dances in the act altogether, all working up to the big number. Miss Peggy Carroll is a concert violinist who, for the time being, is devoting herself to vaudeville. Her repertoire is a splendid one. Daley, Mac & Daley are really remarkable roller skaters, and Nestor & Vincent are balancers of note.

OPERA HOUSE
"Why Girls Leave Home" to Be Presented Next Week By the Lowell Players

Every one, both the young and the old, but more particularly the mothers and daughters of the city and suburbs, should not fail to see and benefit thereby in the coming production, by the Lowell Players at the Opera house, of that wonderfully true and startlingly strong melodrama, "Why Girls Leave Home." The first performance will be given Monday night and continue twice daily for the remainder of the week, excepting Friday matinee.

"Why Girls Leave Home" goes right to the heart of the problem that is so vitally involved in its story, does not devote one bit from its purpose in presenting a clearcut, forceful and constructive story that reveals not only the reasons, but also skilfully suggests a correction for the evil that is so prevalent at the present time, and has been so destructive to the average American home for many years back. The plot of the play, so well known to many of the theatre-goers of our community, reflects the life of a fatherless young girl, lonesome at her home, who accepts the attentions of others, and eventually is deceived to a cafe cabaret, then drugged and deserted. She is then rescued by a woman who professes to be her friend, and is taken to a house and there held to meet a rich old roue. Her brother discovers her whereabouts and goes to her rescue, but before he accomplishes it she disappears and he is charged with her death. At the critical moment she turns up, clears the atmosphere of the suspicious throw, about her and then looks into a bright and happy future.

Do you realize that 60,000 girls, both rich and poor, are reported missing from their homes from year to year? "Why? Youthful impulses—lack of proper companionship, craving for amusement, desire to be "somebody," parental neglect, domestic quarrels, unjust accusations, shattered romance, lure of the big city for the innocent of the small places, and other causes are pointed to as the contributors for these misfortunes that come to many families. "Why Girls Leave Home," is rightly called a dynamic question of the hour, one that must be met. The play reflects with characteristic realism, the experiences of many a girl from all walks of life. Miss Shirley Magrath, the talented young leading woman of the Players, will have one of her best dramatic parts, and Kalman Matow, the leading man, will also find ample opportunity to indicate his exceptional talent. Director Ravold unhesitatingly pronounces the play one of the strongest of its kind of the season and one in which the entire engaging cast will show to particular advantage. Tickets now selling. Telephone 261. Have you placed your name on the subscription list yet? If you haven't, you should. It costs no more.

IRISH CONCERT

The coming of Shaun O'Farrell and his company of artists to the Opera house for a return engagement Sunday afternoon and night, will be good news to the large number who, last Sunday, thoroughly enjoyed the concert given here. It was because of the marked success that characterized this concert program that caused the management to secure a return engagement. Mr. O'Farrell, who is called the Irish Troubadour, will be heard in such numbers as "The Irish Volunteer," "Little Bridget Flynn," "Mother Achusilla" and other popular selections. Miss Kitty O'Sullivan, the song bird of Erin, will sing "Colleen Phas," "Maureen," and other popular numbers, while John O'Nolan and Miss Nora O'Rourke will assist. The motion pictures to be shown are exclusive in these parts and include views of the interior of Dublin castle, the opening of the Dail Eireann parliament, scenes outside the Mansion House, and also views of Countess Marchacler, whose activities in the interest of Ireland are too well known to need retelling at this time. Tickets are now selling. Telephone 261. Order early and avoid possible disappointment.

William Whelan, the Tipperary outlaw, who escaped from Ireland at a time when the British government was offering a price on his head, will give a wonderfully interesting talk on his experiences in Ireland. Whelan is known as the Irish boy orator, and tells a gripping and soul-stirring story of events in the Emerald Isle.

Gareth Hughes Amusing as "Little Eva" in New Comedy

GARETH HUGHES DRESSED AS "LITTLE EVA" IN HIS NEW MOVIE. THE PHOTO ON THE LEFT IS PRINTED SO YOU MAY SEE HOW HE LOOKS WITHOUT CURLS.

BY JAMES W. DEAN

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—"Uncle Tom's Cabin" is staged for a lively comedy situation in Gareth Hughes' latest vehicle, "Little Eva Ascends."

Hughes in the film is forced by his mother-in-law to play the part of the sweetest of sweethearts. His mother-in-law is a character who plays the part of Uncle Tom.

He rebels against playing the part when he reaches the town where his sweetheart lives. His mother-in-law persuades him to go on. This with the help of his brother who plays the part of Uncle Tom.

Little Eva is dying. "Where is heaven, Uncle Tom?" she asks. Then she says, "I get a good notion to talk back and show 'em I'm not a girl."

Uncle Tom: "Up in the clouds—don't crab the show, kid."

Little Eva: "Love, Joy, Heaven—let's all have playing this part."

A kid in the gallery says, "She ain't a boy. He's a girl."

Eva stops on the way to heaven to challenge his taunter to a fight. That ends the show.

MOTHER—HAS YOUR CHILD THESE SYMPTOMS?

Mothers, watch children for symptoms of internal disorders. Look at your child NOW! Is his breath offensive and tongue coated? Does he grind his teeth or start in his sleep? Does he pick or scratch his nose? Is his appetite changeable? Has he occasional griping pains? Is he constipated?

These are some symptoms of worms. Great distress often results from these parasites. Relieve these quickly with Dr. Tru's Elixir, the Family Laxative and Worm Expeller—purely vegetable—first prescribed by an old-fashioned Maine country doctor 71 years ago. Dr. Tru's Elixir, the Family Laxative and Worm Expeller, purifies the bowels as it clears them. A favorite of careful mothers for four generations. Correct constipation in young and old. HIGH COST OF LIVING COMING DOWN

One of the most prominent commodities in the high cost of living that is lower in price, is that of food, which is a blessing to the majority of people, as they will soon be able to afford better meals, but what good is a fine meal if you suffer from indigestion and stomach troubles. You can easily be relieved of these disorders and keep your stomach and digestive organs healthy by taking SEVEN BARKS, nature's remedy of roots and herbs.

The stomach is where digestion begins, but the most important work is done by the bowels, liver and kidneys—failure of these to act efficiently allows the whole body to be poisoned and it is neglected will lead to serious trouble. But if you will take from 10 to 20 drops of SEVEN BARKS in a little water after meals, you can eat and enjoy your favorite food without fear of serious results.

Stomach disorders, if neglected, lead to kidney and bladder troubles. If you are compelled to arise from your slumber once or twice during the night, have dark rings around the eyes, feet or legs swell, palpitation of the heart, it proves your kidneys are affected. SEVEN BARKS will relieve you and keep you well. Ask your druggist for it. Price, 25¢.

latest United Artists' production, "Through the Back Door," while Fairbanks will be shown in "The Nutcracker." The city and suburbs will no doubt appreciate the unusual offering of the management and avail themselves of the rare opportunity that it presents. The bill will run the entire week, and our advice is to attend the performances early in the week so as to avoid the crush that is sure to come during the week-end.

The story of "The Back Door" concerns a little girl who, because a servant loved her and because her stepfather made her mother leave her in Belgium, little Jeanne Rohlmann faces the problem of winning recognition from the mother who thought her dead. She came to America as an immigrant when the world broke out with only a note and a passport to make her identity known. Her mother lives in a place called Long Island. The child came to her in a delivery wagon. Of course, the mother did not recognize her, and circumstances conspired that prevented her from telling her who she was. In order to gain entrance into the home that was rightfully hers she had to enter it through the back door as a servant. The trials and tribulations she encountered and the heartaches and the pain she found all combined to make a fascinating and gripping drama. And the climax that made possible the mother love this little child, hungered for will tug at the heartstrings of all who see it. "Through the Back Door" shows Mary Pickford at her best—a child role with all the pathos, all the comedy and all the heart that she has ever shown. It has made her famous. Don't miss this picture when it is shown during the coming week. See the antics of the trick donkey and the antics of the floor with brushes tied to her feet.

In "The Nutcracker," Douglas Fairbanks, the star has a very fine opportunity to show his versatility. The management of The Strand announces that Fairbanks' admirers will have another excellent opportunity to view his versatility in a picture called "The Nutcracker." Not only does he go smashing through five reels of complicated comedy-drama, but he portrays emotion that has a heart-tug to it. The trend of the story is a love story, but it is a love story that is a comedy, and although much that is done is grotesque there is never a time it is said when he does not with your sympathy with his antics. The picture is characterized by not only excellent work on the part of the star, but also elaborate and artistic scenic effects, including several Greenview Village streets. In addition to many lavish interiors.

Motion picture followers will find in this offering, which is to last the entire week, one of the strongest, best-balanced and most superior photographic offerings ever offered in this or any other city in the country. The presentation of it represents an extra outlay of money, but the management is willing to expend it to give its patrons the best that it has ever had. Only the picture business. It is advisable to attend the early performances, and preferably the matinee or supper performances.

MERRIMACK SQ. THEATRE

"Over the Hill" World Wide Famous Story to be Shown on Screen All Next Week

Commencing with a continuous performance tomorrow afternoon and evening, the Merrimack Square theatre will offer all next week the master photograph of the day, "Over the Hill," adapted from the world-famous novel by William Faulkner. It is a story of a man who has been a year on Broadway, New York City, and will be presented exactly as it is being shown at the Tremont Theatre, Boston, where it has been breaking all records since last August.

Never in the history of the silent drama has a production been accorded the solid support of the public as has been given this powerful narrative of the home. And never has such support been more richly deserved. No picture has ever gripped the heart strings as "Over the Hill" has done. It tells the story of a man with a reverence for parents, with a resolve to be better sons and daughters. "Over the Hill" while perhaps the most appealing story in pathos that has ever been told, is full of life and laughter, with comedy so exquisitely blending with the pathos that it will be years, perhaps never, before the power and beauty of the picture will be equalled.

FOR ASSOCIATION OF NATIONS

Conferences Among the Nations Once a Year Suggested

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26. (By the Associated Press).—With the arms conference negotiations proceeding in an atmosphere of friendliness which delegates generally believe bodes progress and accomplishment, importance attached to its outcome today as a result of the informally expressed hopes of President Harding that the conference might lay the foundation for a closer international accord. The president's plan, which has been offered only as a personal suggestion to some of the foreign delegates, who have generally approved it, was an outstanding topic of discussion in conference circles as the delegates convened this morning for another committee session to take formal action on their virtual decision yesterday for gradual abolishment of extra-territorial rights in China.

Submission of the result of the present negotiations for approval not only to the participating nations, but to those not represented here, including Germany and Russia, was indicated as a possible first step toward world-wide endorsement of the conference plan.

The plan, as offered by the president, was understood to have embraced no details nor was there any indication that any covenant or constitution would be proposed as its basis. This would accord generally with his previous fulfillment eventually of President Harding's "association of nations" idea.

The president's informal proposal comes at a time of growing indication that further negotiations will be necessary to consummate the task begun here, a case in point already reached being the virtual decision of the conference yesterday to send an international committee of jurists to investigate China's judicial system.

The Far Eastern committee of the whole also was expected to conclude today its discussion of the question of abolishing foreign postoffices in China.

FOR ASSOCIATION Republican Women Plan Grand Bazaar—Ball at Copley Plaza Crowning Event

THE GREAT BIG, BEAUTIFUL DOLL

Republican women all over the state are pulling together in splendid fashion to take the bazaar to be held at the Copley Plaza, Boston, on December 6, 7, 8 and 9, one of the most successful affairs the state has ever seen.

Women of the Sixth and Seventh districts are especially interested in the children's table. Mrs. E. M. Tucker has opened her house for a bridge whist and Mrs. Virginia Legare will give a whist party on the night of December 8 for the benefit of this table. Mrs. Jacob Rogers has given a "great big, beautiful doll" which has been beautifully dressed by Mrs. Henry Achin. The doll will be known as "Miss Lowell" and will be on exhibition in one of the windows in the last night of the bazaar to the person guessing nearest the correct number of beans in a bottle. This feature will be handled by Mrs. Achin. Two more interesting dolls are those which have been contributed one to be dressed by the Little Lady Shop and the other in Greek peasant costume, the work of the Greek women who are interested in perpetuating their national embroidery under the direction of Miss Florence Nesmith.

Each of the four days of the bazaar have their special attractions in the evening. On the opening night the cabinet ladies of Washington have been invited. The opening reception will also mark the first public appearance in Boston of Mrs. Calvin Coolidge since her husband became vice president. Mrs. Nathaniel Thayer is chairman of the reception committee for the opening night and Miss Dorothy Forbes will assist her.

The crowning event of the four days' bazaar will come Friday evening when the most elaborate republican ball in the history of Massachusetts will be held in the great ball room of the Copley Plaza with some of the most socially distinguished women of the state as patronesses.

BERLIN, Nov. 26.—The condition of Ellis Loring Dresel, the American charge d'affaires, whose illness necessitated abandonment of the usual Thanksgiving reception, has taken a turn for the worse. "TAD" AND HOWARD JONES

By N.E.A. Service
IOWA CITY, Ia., Nov. 26.—It will be brother against brother when the Yale and Iowa University football teams meet at New Haven in 1922. Howard Jones, former Yale star, is coaching the Iowa eleven and will pit his football brains against his famous brother, "Tad" Jones, Yale man.

Arrangements for the game have been practically completed. Tentative agreement has been reached and all that remains is the signing of the contract and the selection of the date.

PRINCETON SPIRIT DECIDING FACTOR

Princeton in any form of athletics, always looks good, even in defeat. There is a reason of course. Princeton spirit. The Tigers never acknowledge defeat, keep plugging on regardless of the score.

In the Harvard game of this year, the Tigers in the last few minutes of play changed defeat into victory. In the Yale game, after the blue had scored through a break in the game, the Tigers never quit. Twice they rushed the ball within scoring distance only to lose

On The Other Hand

BY ROY GROVE

Connie Mack says he is through trading star players. However, we would hate to see someone offer Connie $25,000 for a $10,000 ball player.

There are some experts who will insist Mack has no star players to trade, so why worry.

We take great pleasure in scooping the world with an All-American team—"Bo" McMillin.

Do you know that: In 1583 Yale kicked its first football.

Ty Cobb was fined out in the Winter league. He's playin' his regular game.

We heard a guy mention the vice president of the United States the other day.

The rumor that Jack Dempsey will coach Vassar next year has been denied.

Old Mother Hubbard closed up her cupboard.

And went to a football game.

When she got there the gridiron was bare.

The season was over, 'sa shame.

"Red" Faber, in discussing his comeback as an American leaguer, says he has enough stuff to win without using the spitball. Which will probably cause a lot of American league batters to dare him to try to do that very thing next year.

Walter Johnson strenuously denies the many reports that he is through as a star pitcher. That will be bad news to a lot of mortals who are planning to make good in the American league next year.

Coach Sanford of Rutgers introduced many novel features in his efforts to develop a winning football team. After looking over Rutgers' scores, we would suggest that the novel features be excluded next year, or some unkind person will be asking if Rutgers is a preparatory school.

TEA TIME

It looks as if England has really developed something in the way of a boxer. Some time ago, at the National Sporting club in London, the authorities told the writer that the first one who could show his stuff in an English prize ring ought to clean up everything, for there were so few in the game. And that very thing seems to be happening today. Kid Lewis at present is holding three titles. He started clearing up the featherweights, and as a fast growing boy he moved the welter crown and middleweight championship. He has now challenged Carpenter and there is little doubt but what he could outbox Beckett, the best of English heavies.

New Style Football Changes Coaching System

BY BILLY EVANS

Football has undergone some rapid changes in the last five years.

The forward pass has entirely revolutionized the coaching system. The coach who has to keep up with the line is lost.

That is why some of the coaches, who were regarded as the best in the game a few years back, are now falling to deliver the forward pass has upset a lot of set coaching rules. The coach who has refused to take modern in his methods has suffered. In his methods he has lost or three years, the attacking power of the well-coached eleven has reached such a stage of efficiency that coaches no longer try to develop a positive defense against the aerial pass.

In order to break the offensive play, a great many coaches are continually striving to develop what is known as the "threat" player. Such players are the threat to the offense constantly in the air, because of their ability to do all things well.

The "threat" player is a versatile star who can run, pass and kick with equal skill. Usually he starts all plays from similar formations. This of course makes it very difficult for the opposing team to diagnose what is coming next. Take the recent World Series. Babe Ruth was the big threat of the New York Americans. When he passed from the lineup, the Yankees had nothing much to worry about.

The "threat" player in football really is the introduction of the change of pace of the ball field to the gridiron. The threat of center cannon over Harvard was an example of the real value of the "threat" player.

Harvard expected McMillin to throw forward pass any time he received the ball. McMillin invariably ran with it through a broken line, and once got away for the winning score of the game.

LOWELL SUFFERS FOURTH DEFEAT OF WEEK

Lowell poloists suffered their fourth defeat of the present week last night, when the Providence team won out in a fast and well played game at the Crescent rink by the score of 4 to 2.

Providence got the jump in the first period, and while Lowell tied the count in the second stanza, the visitors again went to the front in the final session and maintained the slight advantage to the end.

"Jigger" Higgins, hero of many a polo battle, was the star of the night. He started all over the rink with remarkable speed and his artistic maneuvering, his juggling and driving, led, played winning polo, and his passing to Higgins, had an important part of his team's success. Sox Lyons was the big obstacle in Lowell's path. He broke up many a goal, and forced the Lowell offense men to employ all their cunning and ability to get by him. Evans and Purcell also played well.

Two decisions by Referee Ford, making his debut here, had an important bearing on the result. Purcell went down in front of the cage, and he touched the ball. Lowell players, headed by Capt. Quigley, contended that it was a foul in goal. The referee, however, finally declared it only a foul on Purcell. Had it been ruled a foul in goal, Lowell would have been given a goal. Davies hit one into the cage, only to have the ball reappear on the outside. Again an argument ensued. Quigley claimed Purcell pulled the ball out of the curtains. The referee ruled that the ball rolled out.

Following the game Capt. Quigley announced that he would send a protest to the secretary of the league against the decisions of the referee. The lineup and score:

LOWELL: Providence 4, Lowell 2. (First Period) Higgins, Providence 2, Evans, Lowell 1. (Second Period) Higgins, Providence 1, Lowell 1. (Third Period) Higgins, Providence 1, Lowell 1. TEAMS LACK PROPER SCHEDULE
Just as long as college football schedules are arranged in a haphazard fashion, the annual fall season is really the champion will continue.

Only the defeat of Ohio state by Illinois cleared up the situation. In the western conference, a victory by state would have given that team grounds for claiming the title. On the other hand, Iowa had plenty of time to prepare for the game.

The football season doesn't make it a very desirable attraction for Ohio state. Lynn St. John, director of athletics, who asked to explain the situation, offered the following explanation:

The football games for Ohio state are Michigan, Calumet and Illinois. While we still have another year to go, our two-year contract with Minnesota, the great distance between the two universities makes the scheduling of games a great task. In the west, the great distance of the part of both the Ohio and Minnesota faculty is that college work is seriously interrupted by the time required to travel the trips. It is the same with Iowa. A more matter of distance has kept Iowa off our schedule.

T. J. Allen, who is from the University of Ohio state at one of the conference teams makes it a tough job to arrange games with teams at such a distance. As much as coaches and directors arrange schedules to test out their own conditions, they have to take into account the fact that two or more teams in the conference have been arranged.

Boston College and Holy Cross Clash at Braves Field This Afternoon

40,000 Expected at Army-Navy Battle at the Polo Grounds

BOSTON, Nov. 26.—The college football season in Boston will close this afternoon, when Boston college and Holy Cross clash in their annual cross clash at Braves field. The game will start at 2 o'clock.

Two of the last four games have been won in the last few minutes of play, and today's game promises to be closely contested.

There are all sorts of guarantees for a hard, clean, close battle. Each team confidently expects to win; both expect to win. The Worcester college victory today means success for the season; each team is now at its height.

The last two games give reason to expect one team to the other to win by a small margin in the game. The excitement of the thousands.

Noting now favors Boston college, the game is expected to be a close one. It was only the showing by Boston college against the Washington players, in comparison with the work of Holy Cross, that gave the Worcester college the edge.

Each team is at its best and both are trained and worked up to the occasion. Comparisons in the past have meant nothing. The Worcester college will take the field this afternoon with the same lineup that faced Harvard earlier in the season in the Stadium.

INDIANS TO PLAY PERE MARQUETTE IN BOSTON

The Indian football team will journey to Boston Sunday to play the strong Pere Marquette K. C. team of South Boston on the Christopher playgrounds at 2.30. The game should be a hot one.

In addition to the regular Indian team, the Indians have a play-off team which will have Green and Reese of Harvard, both ex-college stars. Green of Cornell and Reese of Dartmouth, Harvard players, are the stars of the best of Boston's semi-pro teams. Managers Spence and Donnellan are confident of bringing home the bacon for the Indians.

Jack Dempsey Gets Two Offers

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 26.—Jack Dempsey has had two new offers, one from Bill Brennan, the other from Jack Carpenter of St. Paul, Dempsey's manager, Jack Kearns, announced today. Kearns said neither proposal would be decided until Dempsey completes the vaudeville tour which brought him here.

ROBSON GETS DECISION OVER MIKE GIBBONS

BOSTON, Nov. 26.—Tommy Robson, Malden middleweight, was awarded the decision over Mike Gibbons, "the St. Paul Phantom," in their 10-round bout last night at the Arena under the auspices of the Fenway A. A. Gibbons was knocked out in the 10th round by a knockout.

Robson fought the best he has here in a long time. Had he not been too anxious to win, he might have won by a knockout. He caught Gibbons coming out of a corner with a right to the jaw and Gibbons went down for the count, eight.

When Gibbons got to his feet, he started talking to Robson to keep him from following up his advantage. He tried to ward off the punches that Robson was throwing at him. He did deflect many of them.

Finally Robson landed another right to the jaw and Gibbons went down for the count, eight. He continued to talk and stall.

Robson became anxious when he saw that Gibbons was in a corner. He tried to land a right and left to Gibbons' face, but none of them landed flush enough to stop him. Gibbons weathered the round and went to his corner staggered.

The test of Mike a world of good, for he came out for the next session nearly recovered from the effects of the punches he received in the previous round.

Gibbons was never in bad shape again. He must have underrated Robson when he was in the corner. He soon found out that he was against a well-trained boxer who was strong and not so easily knocked out.

FATTEST, TALLEST AND SMALLEST

There is much to choose between these three women. It is weight, there's Jolly Mamie, 780 pounds. Princess Wee Wee is 28 and that's seven years more than she is inches tall. Miss Cleve Gill, the Texas cowgirl, will be a big girl when she grows up, although she's only seven feet, nine inches tall now. They're circus people.

"Yes," nodded the Mushroom solemnly. "That's the very same place. And Kip was there! The trouble is that Kip may still be there. You see

A New York jury of artists has declared she has the most beautiful form in the United States. But who's going to admit that any New York jury knows everything about beauty? And, anyway, this jury didn't have all the evidence before them, did it? Your opinion is as good as theirs.

Miss Egget lives in Fresno, Cal., is 25, stands 5 feet 7 inches, and weighs 136 pounds.

She has the famous Venus de Milo backed off the boards, say the artists.

She has been supporting her crippled father by working in an office. Now she is debating between accepting a $1000 prize and a movie engagement.

Kip has always been jealous of Mr. Pin Pin, because Kip was King of the Brownies until Pin came. But Kip was always getting the Brownies into trouble and making them so tricky that, my goodness gracious alive, they got to be almost as bad as the gnomes! So the Fairy Queen sent Pin Pin to govern the Brownies and to keep Kip in order as well, just like our president sends a governor to rule over people who can't take care of themselves.

The Twins were listening carefully. "Then I suppose that everything Mr. Pin Pin does, Kip tries to keep him from doing, is that it?" asked Nancy. "Exactly," said the Mushroom. "That's just it, my dear. And when the message came from the Fairy Queen about getting the shiny dyes for the Christmas things, didn't Kip go and tattle it to the gnomes right away. Now there's a fine song and dance!"

"Well, here to go at once," said Nick, starting off toward the dogwood tree. "Mr. Pin Pin may be needing help right at this minute!"

URGES FIVE CENT FARE FOR LOWELL

Quoting in part a statement he made several months ago in favor of a five cent fare on the street railway, Mayor Perry D. Thompson last night addressed a letter to the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Co., urging thorough consideration of the matter immediately. He cites the case of Fall River, where the five cent fare has been restored. The letter follows:

Nov. 25, 1921.
Mr. Homer G. Loring,
Chairman Board of Trustees, Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Co., 1 Beacon St., Boston, Mass.
Dear Sir:—It has come to my attention through the daily press that Fall River is the first district in the Bay State system to achieve the five-cent fare, the public trustees having put into effect this week in that city, a 20-ride punch card ticket, good on all lines.

You will recall that in March of this year, after appearing in person before the public trustees at a joint meeting with the Lowell home rule committee and urging a trial; at least, of the five-cent fare proposition in Lowell, I took a great deal of interest in the orders introduced in the legislature by representatives of a number of cities, calling for a legislative investigation of the possibility of the establishment of five cents as a basic unit of fare on the lines of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Co. I committed myself to five cents as the basis for a single fare in Lowell some time ago, or at the hearing above mentioned and at that time newspaper records show that I addressed the conference in part as follows:

"My attitude on the subject is a matter of record. The higher fare has not proved a success from the railway's point of view. It has not earned enough revenue to meet the expenses that the road is authorized by law to incur. A higher fare having failed, why not give a lower one a trial? I am convinced that it would prove a success and a solution of the street railway company's difficulties. I believe thoroughly that Lowell should have five cent fares. It would benefit the people who patronize the

Toomsboro, Ga.—"I suffered terribly with backache and headache all the time. I was so weak and nervous I didn't know what to do, and could not do my work. My trouble was deficient and irregular periods. I read in the papers what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for others and decided to give it a trial. I got good results from its use so that I am now able to do my work. I recommend your Vegetable Compound to my friends who have troubles similar to mine and you may use these facts as a testimonial."—Mrs. C. F. PHILLIPS, Toomsboro, Ga.

Weak, nervous women make unhappy homes, their condition irritates both husband and children. It has been said that nine-tenths of the nervous prostration, nervous despondency, "the blues," irritability and backache arise from some displacement or derangement of a woman's system. Mrs. Phillips' letter clearly shows that no other remedy is so successful in overcoming this condition as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

cars and would produce more revenue for the roads. I still hold that as my opinion and as head of the municipality of Lowell, I do earnestly urge you and your board to give the city sincere and thorough consideration in the matter of a fare reduction here that will return us to the old standard rate of five cents.

Very truly yours,
PERRY D. THOMPSON,
Mayor of Lowell.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—No, dear, the lady hasn't her dress on wrong. It's all the style to make up satin crepe with "inside out."
The fad started in Paris and our smart dressers coming home from the Rue de la Paix all have at least one satin crepe dress with the glossy side concealed.
In America the fad has been repeated, although the popular satin crepe in this country holds its sheeny brightness still in favor.
Satin crepe, one of the most popular materials, is worn both reversed and right side out.
The stunning gown is of "Molly O" satin crepe, which is lustrous and soft. The gown shown here is "outside out with care."
It is made along the Greek lines, which are so graceful, with the American touch showing in the long tassets at the side and on the sleeves.

(Special to The Sun)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 26.—For the first time in four years the German Embassy, up in Washington's most exclusive residential section, is again thrown open, and the seat of official diplomatic headquarters. They are house-cleaning up in that big stone mansion, just as more down-to-the-ground folks are putting their homes in order for a Washington winter. The accredited representative will be here in a few days and take the place of the last ambassador, Count Von Bernstorff, who as representative of the Kaiser left Washington in 1917.

There is much to be done at the great house closed since that date, and the new representative, Baron Von Thurnmann, says Germany has but little money to spend on its embassy or on its staff. All the same an effort will be made to get the full staff here and diplomat work in running order by the first of January. When the baron landed in New York he was described as wearing clothes that had seen their best days, and was practically unaccompanied. The baron is commonly said to be acting as ambassador, but other statements are made to the effect that he is merely looking after the opening of the embassy and no credentials will be presented to him until a change of affairs has been sent over from Germany, which, it is said, will be in December. The newly accredited ambassador, when he arrives must take his place at the lower end of the long line, for diplomatic rules require those of longest standing in the country to which they are assigned to take official and social precedence over the new comers. Thus a country loses prestige and precedence by changing its envoys.

So much is being done in the way of entertaining foreign delegates to the conference that it seems a wonder they are left to themselves long enough to perform the duties for which they came. Dinners, luncheons, receptions follow each other in such rapid succession, that the wonder grows that they can stand the strain of the race against time. Society leaders, and the men and women high in political life, who want to do them all possible honor. Some one asked one of the visitors a day or so ago: "How do you manage under the American prohibition law?" The diplomat replied, "We drink very sparingly of wine, but we buy an American for we know his secret supply makes it like offering us a cup of liquid gold. But when it is given us by a member of the diplomatic corps, who does not come under the prohibition law, we use it as freely as we would in Europe."

The scarlet coats of the British and the French blue cloaks of the men from that nation quite overpower the khaki of our own officers and the solemn black of our diplomats. We seem like a quiet and subdued people judging from the gleam of the sword and the ring from the Secretary Hughes and the other delegates are putting into the conference, it isn't clothes that tell the story.

On all sides one hears praises for the plans of the administration and the American delegates. Even the closing days of congress fall out in comparison even in this city of political talk and action.

The adjournment of congress is marked by hard knocks. Bitterness between factions and much expunging of the official records. Clashes between republicans and democrats are scarcely less common than clashes between party factions. Language far from parliamentary standard has been hurled across the so-called "dignified senate," only to be eliminated from the official records a few minutes later, but not till it has gone into newspapers and been scattered world wide. But while congress is at war with itself, world peace, through limitation of naval warfare, is rapidly advancing down at the Pan American building a couple of miles away from the strife on Capitol hill.

War Risk Bureau Investigation
Investigation of the War Risk Bureau is now the uppermost investigation in the minds of Washington. Accusations of extravagance, delay, neglect and inefficiency have been revived and government officials are quoted as saying the New England headquarters in Boston will quickly fall under the sharp eyes of authorized investigators. Chairman Madden of the house appropriation committee is taking steps to protect the veterans' fund and has made it clear that the committee proposes to see that the funds are used for the bona fide care of deserving veterans and not squandered in high salaries or otherwise wasted. "It is a sacred fund," says he, "and was appropriated for a sacred purpose. We want the men for whom it was appropriated to get its full benefit." Colonel Forbes, director of the bureau, states that there are now 100,000 men taking vocational training and approximately 100,000 who have made application. There are about 30,000 men in hospitals, most of whom receive compensation. Among the amusing incidents of the week was the arrival here of an enormous turkey for the president's Thanksgiving dinner. It was amusing because the bird came by airplane, all dolled up in an embroidered blanket and goggles.

Secretary Works Cutting Down
Some one has suggested that new Secretary of War Weeks has reduced the clerical force of the army at the rapid-fire rate of 3000 a month. The president would do well to make his office a rotary one, and put him at the head of other government departments, till the low level is reached.

The Heavens of Congress
Scarcely a New England congressman will be left here during the recess which began Wednesday and will continue till the 5th of December, when the regular session opens. The congress has not cleaned its slate very well, and the wet sponge must be applied in a hurry when the winter session opens, else summer and primaries and even the 1922 election will find the republican congress still trying to catch up. Instead of having completed the program it so conscientiously announced would follow the election of a republican administration and congress. Factional fights among the republicans do not promise well for a get-together next fall, and democrats smile broadly as they try to rip wider open the seams of republican party allegiance that are held together by a seemingly slender thread. There is no denying that the party in power is thoroughly worried over the outlook.

THE LEATHER AND SHOE MAKING INDUSTRY
Lowell boot and shoe manufacturers are interested in a news item contained in the latest New England letter issued by the First National bank of Boston, in which statements are made relative to the leather and shoe making industry that indicate changes in wage systems are likely to come in this city.

The letter says: "Some increase in activity is noted in certain sections of the local shoe industry of New England during the past month, with some factories that have been idle for months resuming operations, despite the fact that labor interests are strongly opposed to accepting wage revision that would put New England manufacturers on a parity with their western competitors. Local manufacturers are seeking a reduction in wages of approximately 20 per cent, and declare that footwear made in the west can be brought to New England and retailed for less than the price of shoes made here. Nevertheless, some of the largest producers have increased their output a little, and the activity seems to be greatest where a medium grade of shoe is made, which can be retailed at less than former prices. In leather also, the tendency is toward less expensive grades, and there is a scarcity in some lines, more especially the heavier varieties. "The market for country extremes of mid-west origin, current saving choice stock is now about 11 cents selected, as against 12 and 12 1/2 cents a short time ago and 17 1/2 and 17 3/4 cents at this time in 1913. New England extremes are about 10 1/2 cents, as against 10 1/2 and 11 cents a week ago. Packer hides, on the other hand, do not show any such tendency, several successive advances having been secured during the past month. Stocks are disposed of about as rapidly as produced." Chamber of commerce officials are lining up with the Boston chamber in the campaign of protest against the action of the associated mercantile bodies of St. Louis, which issued a formal appeal to New England shoe industries some time ago to move their business and machinery to St. Louis at all.

CHOW TSUCHI'S VIEWS

China Victim of Militarism, Not Pacifism, Says Leading Banker

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 26.—A man who combines in his intellectual equipment the bland wisdom of his old chief, Li Hung Chang, and the keen wit of his contemporary, Wu Ting Fang, Chow Tsuchi former minister of finance of China, has been sent by the Peking government to Washington to act as adviser extraordinary to the Chinese delegation during the conference on limitation of armaments. Afterward he will go to New York.

business," a term interpreted to mean that he will have something important to say to the international bankers with reference to the loans and the finances of the Asiatic republic.

The special envoy, who arrived here on the Admiral Tien Silver state, with a corps of secretaries and servants, said that China, by the world regarded as a victim of national pacifism, is in reality the victim of its own multitude of militarists.

"Believed of her military ranks, and with a good strong central government established, China will be on a firm foundation, financially and nationally, within three years," he declared. "And it at the conference the nations of the world show a willingness to abandon freebooting policies, there will be an end to the far eastern question."

Mr. Chow spent 14 years in the United States as a diplomatic attaché. He came first in the entourage of the assassinated Li Hung Chang, and later served with the famous Chinese minister to Washington, Wu Ting Fang. He is now a banker at Tien Tsin, and credited with being the most influential financier in China.

H. V. Perrault, whose office and workshop are at 127 Market street, is a general contractor who specializes in store and office work. He is an able man in his line and employs the best of tradesmen. Mr. Perrault gives his personal attention to every job, which is an assurance that all his contracts are fulfilled to the letter.

LOWELL HAMER
Lowell Hamer is a local electrician who specializes in old house wiring. He is an expert in his line and his motto is efficiency and low prices. This is one thing that Mr. Hamer guarantees in connection with his jobs no first disturbing of plaster or floors. His office is at 14 Burnaby street and his telephone number is 4672-W.

LOUIS
The local officials believe this to be far from open "warfare" in commercial channels, and believe that eventually all wage difficulties will be straightened out to the satisfaction of all concerned.

The situation in Lynn and in Brockton is reported to be better, and there is no apparent indication at the present time that a big wage reduction is contemplated right away. Those interested in the boot and shoe industry say that a 20 per cent cut in wages might be made under any consideration, although the unions are directly opposed to any cut at all.

Judging from the present outlook, it would not be surprising to find the arms conference, which opened at Washington with such a flourish of trumpets, go to pieces without accomplishing anything.

Already the jeers of the leading powers of Europe have become pronounced; and Lord Curzon, British foreign minister, has made a speech in which he declares against the pretensions of France as to the necessity of maintaining a very large army as a precaution against attack by Germany. The British delegation is also fighting the claims of France by every means possible, in the conference and outside. The leaders claim that it is of no use to reduce naval armaments if any European power be allowed to maintain a large army that would threaten the safety of any of the nations that have agreed to reduce their naval power.

France has also expressed a desire to maintain large submarines, and there is nothing in the line of armament that England is more opposed to than submarines having a long cruising capacity. This is natural enough, inasmuch as her ships are on every sea and liable to destruction by high powered submarines. There is little prospect of any satisfactory result from the Washington conference, if any power be allowed to maintain an army of a million and a half and also a squadron of powerful submarines. British statesmen have gone so far as to say that the French submarines are intended for use in attacking the British navy. This statement may be based upon imagination, or fear, such as France is credited with in her claim that Germany is getting ready to attack her.

There is another heated controversy on in the conference over China, whose delegates threaten to abandon the conference if the British plan for the treatment of China be adopted. The proposition already made provides for the maintenance of Chinese railroads by a consortium of the great powers. This, in addition to the other policies to be adopted, would practically mean the internationalization of China.

China has been conceded some minor points but the main issue is unsettled.

It is apparent also from the various discussions that England will not abandon her alliance with Japan unless she can obtain a substitute alliance with the United States, or otherwise, a triple entente, including England, Japan, and the United States, not only on the reduction of naval power but also upon Far Eastern questions.

While the powers seemed to accept the proposition laid down by Secretary Hughes, with much good will and readiness, yet it appears that when an effort is made to bring them to a definite agreement, they have so many objections and modifications to offer, and so many conditions to insist upon, that no concrete agreement can be reached. Whether there is any means of bringing them to definite terms, either in a treaty or otherwise, remains to be seen. At the present time, the high hopes entertained for naval disarmament by the great powers of the world are rapidly vanishing.

In the midst of the conflicting claims and the apparent disintegration of the conference, the report is given out that if the plans outlined by Secretary Hughes should be carried out, the United States might cut the war loans in half for the benefit of the European creditors. We do not see on what authority any such statement can be made. President Harding has no right to make such a statement; neither has Secretary Hughes, and yet this is one of the announcements sent out simultaneously from Washington and London. Can it be that the powers are to get such a stupendous bribe for entering into an agreement for the reduction of armaments which would benefit themselves quite as much as the United States?

YOUR POWER

Tears came to the eyes of Marshal Foch, and for 10 minutes he forgot that he is at a banquet in Boston, as he talks to a war veteran, blinded in both eyes. It is an admirable sidelight on the humane character of the greatest Frenchman, who was entrusted with the lives of 1,500,000 soldiers. The blinded veteran is Lieutenant Guy Envin. Like Foch, you pity him for his loss of sight. Yet Envin is studying international law at Harvard, a task that is extremely difficult even to those with perfect sight. It is an inspiring instance of what man can accomplish, despite any handicap, if he keeps his fighting spirit alive.

Ben Welch, the comedian, went blind a year ago. But he became dauntless—five up the front row. In the presence of a large audience, including the mayor of Lowell, R. L. Welch burned his own eyes out, and policy that would have cost him $10,000 in a long run of $100,000 for the rest of his life.

New York is to be the center of the country, healthful and cheerful, as in the old days. He says he will carry a cane.

A friend, dressed as a policeman, leads him out on the stage. Standing on a bench, the friend says that he gets that he is blind and charges the audience with a riddle.

Blindness would make most of us dejected. But Welch says that it has only made him more anxious to cheer up others.

"Life," says he, "is too short to quit work."

The cases of Ben Welch and Lieutenant Envin change the whole mental attitude of any man who has become discouraged by physical handicap. The great men of history became disabled, the world famous great, almost entirely because of the obstacles they overcame.

The popularity of such stories involves some form of contest—desperate chances, disheartening odds, seemingly insurmountable barriers.

The popularity of such stories proves that, in every person, there is the instinctive desire and the ability to overcome obstacles.

Don't be discouraged. Keep your fighting spirit. You can overcome anything but the impossible if you go with obstacles are placed in your path to develop your powers. They are the gymnasium exercises of life, training you to handle like things.—N.E.A.

THE CITY ELECTION

While there is considerable criticism of the primary system, as applied under the new charter, there is reason to believe that on the whole the results will be more gratifying than was expected. The list of nominees for the city council and the school board indicates that the people want the best men they can find and are ready to support them. There have been some grave surprises and disappointments, but it is expected that in all the contests, the electorate will choose the more acceptable candidates in the final election.

There will certainly be new blood in the municipal council and the school board; and it is hoped that better city government will result. As to the difficulties besetting the primary election, we believe they can all be remedied before next fall, so that the polling can be started earlier and the counting completed before the following morning.

There is need of some nominating body that would have the confidence of the electorate, but thus far no provision has been made for any such plan.

It has been noticeable in the recent primary election that there was more or less adherence to political party lines; but this, we presume, can never be fully overcome; yet it is not so bad as the dangerous tendency in some quarters to inject race and religious issues into the school board contest. It is to be hoped that sensible people will not let such considerations interfere with the exercise of their civic duties.

If the electorate fails to select strong men and women for office at the city election, they cannot plead lack of opportunity.

AN ENGLISH VIEW

America is invited by a certain somewhat sensational newspaper syndicate to follow the views of Lord Northcliffe when "taking his Japanese medicine." Just how far America should go in adopting the private opinions of Mr. Northcliffe, remains to be revealed. Giving Mr. Northcliffe full credit for establishing and maintaining a mighty chain of English newspapers that have a multitude of readers, it does not seem apparent to the average American that we must perforce take the Northcliffe side in his Japanese discoveries while traveling through the Far East.

Lord Northcliffe is opposed to the so-called Anglo-Japanese alliance and he calls it the sharpest sword in the hands of the "war party" in the oriental kingdom. The Chinese, of course, detest this alliance as much as some Americans do, for one bad result of the alliance is the attitude of the war party toward Japan's desire for real democratic government. The so-called Japanese "flier" is a farce, according to Mr. Northcliffe, who claims it has no more power than the old German Zeppelin. Four elder statesmen rule Japan absolutely, the English newspaperman claims.

Lord Northcliffe may rest assured that the United States will not entangle itself in any foreign alliance as he suggests to save its Pacific commerce or to enable it to maintain "the open door." Washington has the courage to maintain its relations with the Far East—and the world—as it sees fit. Lord Northcliffe is needlessly alarmed and some think his predictions from the Orient are intended to promote closer relations between the United States and England.

AMERICANIZING FOCH

The distinguished commander-in-chief of the allied armies in the world war has discovered just what Americans really are on their home soil. To be sure Marshal Foch made an important discovery some years ago as to the real value of American friendship typified by a million of more men in khaki who swept over the eastern sea to the support of a still free land, and established the world. But it may safely be said that this French soldier who was born on a farm where they nurture true Frenchmen, never realized until he saw how the Americans really are on their home soil. To be sure Marshal Foch made an important discovery some years ago as to the real value of American friendship typified by a million of more men in khaki who swept over the eastern sea to the support of a still free land, and established the world. But it may safely be said that this French soldier who was born on a farm where they nurture true Frenchmen, never realized until he saw how the Americans really are on their home soil.

Blindness would make most of us dejected. But Welch says that it has only made him more anxious to cheer up others.

CEMENTING THE BONDS

The cases of Ben Welch and Lieutenant Envin change the whole mental attitude of any man who has become discouraged by physical handicap. The great men of history became disabled, the world famous

Viennese practitioner of plastic surgery, who lately arrived in New York with the avowed intention of helping to pay Austria's debt to the American people by offering his services to hospital clinics throughout the country. Readers of The Sun will recall that some 18 years ago Dr. Lorenz came to the United States to cure Miss Lolita, daughter of one of the great meat packers, who was suffering from a most unusual case of hip dislocation. Miss Lolita, always remembered affectionately by sympathizing men and women, is now Mrs. John J. McArthur, Jr., a happy wife and doubly so because of the wonderful work of Lorenz, "the knifeless" surgeon. The Viennese practitioner is thirty-eight years at this time. He comes on an errand of mercy and is sure to receive the homage from a grateful people who recognize the value of his great scientific genius in an important branch of surgery.

THE STEEL INDUSTRY

With the steel industry suffer when battleship building is curtailed. Well to some extent at first, but not as much as most people expect.

Pittsburgh Steel Company is the leading American producer of steel war materials, but its investment in munition plants is less than 5 percent of its total property investment.

In normal times, less than 1 percent of total American steel production goes for armaments. That is not much to lose. It would be more than made up by the increased peacetime demand for steel in a world rendered more productive by a lessening of its war-preparedness burden.

INTERSTATE ROADS

Jobs for 150,000 men, building 6261 miles of roads, are expected to follow the recent passage of the federal highway act.

The cost of the new roads will be about $12,000 a mile.

The nation's investment in highways is many times as big as the investment in railroads.

With the national government sharing with states the expense of road construction, we may be headed for the time when Uncle Sam will take over the main interstate highways controlling them from Washington with uniform laws.

And now it seems that a certain element in our citizenship think their votes are thrown away when given to any candidate who is not an accomplished artist in the use of the black brush.

There were 171 candidates on the primary ballot. Only fifty on the ballot for December 11. Even precinct 3 of ward seven will have no difficulty in counting that ballot.

Coasting accidents will make up for the decrease in auto accidents during winter. The reckless we have always with us.

Of course the Japs are willing to let us feed the starving Chinese any time we see fit.

Precinct officers may have to take a civil service examination hereafter.

"Near-lier" was correctly spelled after all.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

Beating the railroad and street trolley lines is somewhat of a joy to many people. A few had the chance, night or so and promptly availed themselves of it, although I suppose they should not be obliged to pay. About eleven o'clock as the car going up Christian Hill way was turning a corner, the trolley dropped off the wire with a jerk. Upon examination it was found the rope had snapped in part way up the pole, the car repairing it in a short time appeared again. The conductor came out, climbed up on top of the car, slipped and fell to the ground. He was not seriously hurt and wanted to make another attempt to gain the roof. A younger and more athletic man climbed to the roof and the work of fixing the trolley began. In the meantime about one-half the occupants got out of the car and walked away. The click of the conductor's punch could not be heard nor the jingle of coins into the box. The cry seemed to be, "We can't wait all night to be taken home. If we have to walk we don't have to pay."

If you hear some little kiddie talking about that great big turkey, that fire cracker sauce or any of the things that go with a Thanksgiving dinner, you might consider him one of the lucky youngsters who attended the Salvation Army feed. Over 300 Lowell youngsters partook of the dinner given Thursday and each of them has voted the Salvation Army to be all right. And the members of the organization who worked so hard to make the affair a success feel well repaid for their efforts. It wasn't easy for the "Salter" to stand all day beside the tables. But they were willing to make that sacrifice if the public would contribute the nickels and dimes.

Michael J. Dowd, court officer in the district court and a former city official, is an enthusiastic defender of the new charter. While the reaction from the primaries were straining in many cases, remarks were heard in the purchasing agent's office where the projectors were on duty, relative to the charter's defects. Mr. Dowd was on duty in his usual capacity as assistant to Lawrence Cummings, Boston Globe correspondent, and it may be said that he allowed no criticism to pass unheeded and was kept busy answering these queries, but he emerged a victor from every tilt.

SEEN AND HEARD

Many a man has died without a struggle who found it impossible to live that way.

It is easy for a woman with false teeth to bite off more molasses candy than she can chew.

When compared with the tailor-made woman, appearances are against the self-made man.

A woman can stand being seasick out yachting because it makes some other woman who wasn't asked sickier with envy.

Miss Alla Norton, living on a farm in Burton county Kan., travels 10 miles and passes through three counties on her way to and from school each day.

Where 16 English women students come forward in any one district, the British ministry of labor is empowered to institute classes in cookery and general domestic work.

Misdirected Appeal

The tramp shambled after the snarling dog carrying a prosperous-looking bag. "Give us a couple of pennies, please," he pleaded. "Just something to get some bread. Think we'll be first friends, despised and hated by all." "Shut up, you fool!" said the man with the bag, "I'm a tax collector!"

She Was Clever

They met at a dance and after a few dances together sat down. Silence followed. He looked at her, she looked at him. More silence. Then at last George asked: "Daisy, will you be my—?" "George," cried Daisy, "this is so odd. Give me a little time—'I'll be ready for the next dance,' concluded George. 'To get my breath back,' also continued Daisy between her puffs. 'I haven't quite recovered from the last jazz yet.'"

The European Way

Secretary Hoover said at a banquet: "One difference between Europe and America is that over there they like to keep you in your place—stationary, you know, while here we like to see a man rise. The European idea is pretty well illustrated by the remarks of Muggins, Muggins on the night of the public dance, Saturday night, said to his wife: 'I believe in manly pride and reasonable ambition, but when Serg. Todd with his cork leg takes to carryin' a cane besides, it looks to me as if he was tryin' to climb out of the station what Divine Providence sunk him into.'"

Natural Causes

A Scotsman was journeying on the top of a London omnibus, when he was overjoyed at seeing a shilling lying in the gutter below. Of course, he immediately leaped down, picked up the shilling, placed it in his coat, and was running to overtake the bus when he was accidentally knocked down by another car. Unfortunately, he was killed, and at the inquest which followed things looked very black for the chauffeur of the car. Then at length one witness mentioned that the deceased was of Scottish nationality and related the circumstances which led to the accident. The proceedings were then terminated by exonerating the driver from all blame with the verdict, "Death from natural causes."

Enjoyed the Joke

Mrs. Robinson, Theodore Roosevelt's sister, tells the following good one on T. R.: The White House telephone rang and Roosevelt answered it without waiting to ring for a servant. "Hello," he answered in a listening look, and then a broad smile broke over his features. "No," he said, "I am not Archie. I am Archie's father." A second pause and he laughed aloud and then said: "All right, I will tell him. I won't forget." Hanging up the receiver, he turned to his half-sister, sheepishly, but very much amused. "That's a good joke on any president," he said. "You may have realized that there was a little boy on the other end of that wire, and he started the conversation by saying: 'Is that you, Archie?' And I replied, 'No, it is Archie's father.' Whereupon he said: 'Well, where'd you get that?'" "Well, I would be sure and tell Archie to come to supper. Now don't forget."

The Drexler

I'm not a "fired business man," yet every time I go to the office I find a note pinned to my desk. The note reads: "Thanksgiving Day. The ol' snout shows a fly."

I think I'll take a day off soon. And visit my home town. To go to the office and see to me. From good old Colonel Brown.

He writes me in his quaint, old style that used to make me laugh. "Come home, young man, and see your folks."

"They'll kill the fatted calf!" That letter sort of hit me. Right here between the lines! It gave me one surprise.

Ho, hum! I guess it's up to me to travel back some day. And so I'll try and fix it up if I can get away.

There's lots to do before I go. There's folks to see and sell. And I must close that deal for coal with Murray of the "L."

And when I've got to take a trip to little old New York. And straighten out some mortgages. My partner made with Rorke.

I know the folks in my old town. Would treat me like a king. If I could once get down there I'd be the whole darned thing.

But there's that pesky lumber. That must be shipped to Chicago. It seems as if my work would keep me tied to this old burg!

And so you see I'm not quite sure. And cannot really say. Just when I'll have a chance to go back home Thanksgiving Day.

DIVERSE VERSES at the ARMS CONFERENCE By Berton Bralley

GENTLEMEN FROM THE FLOWERY KINGDOM

There were three charming Chinamen who sat and talked to me Tsai Ting-kan and Hawk Ling Yen and Thomas King, Litt. D. For Tsai Ting-kan's an admiral, a bluff sea-dog is he, But what he chiefly talked about was Chinese poetree.

And Dr. Hawk Ling Yen's a man of very high degree, Perhaps M. D. or Ph. D. or maybe LL. D., While Thomas King's a credit to his justly well-known nation As able secretary of the Chinese delegation.

I didn't meet the delegates, despite my earnest plea, But still, I had a merry time with these advisers three— Ah, yes, we sat in pleasant chat and sipped our Chinese tea, Tsai Ting-kan and Hawk Ling Yen and Thomas King and me.

The admiral, while balancing his cup upon his knee, Recited Chinese verses writ in 1810 B. C. And Hawk Ling Yen and Thomas King were fluent as could be Intoning ancient Chinese songs with great vivacity.

Our talk of Eastern politics and policies was free, They did not touch disarmament, but lodged it quiet-lee, And so we sipped and smoked and ate—and take it straight from me, Although I didn't get a clue on what the Chinese plan to do, There's mighty few more pleasant things than drinking Chinese tea With Tsai Ting-kan and Hawk Ling Yen, and Thomas King, Litt. D.

SPEAKING OF THE FRENCH

At the French headquarters the delegates Are always getting in fearful straits; They lose their sticks and their coats and hats And often their collars and ties and spats, And then for snecor and aid they call To the girl at the desk in the outer hall; And she straightens them out when they're all awlirl, For that girl in the Hall is a capable girl!

At the French Headquarters the delegates Stalk up and down at various gaits, And you think they're stating important news, When they're merely trying to find their shoes. The girl at the desk informs them where Their stuff is kept—and she leads them there, And laughs exhibiting teeth of pearl— For the Girl in the Hall is a humorous girl!

At the French headquarters the delegates Speak only French—while the girl translates; She guards the portals with tact and zest And sees that the diplomat's clothes are pressed; She chatters in English or French at choice With a charming manner and dulcet voice, And you leave the place in a sort of 'whirl, For the Girl in the Hall is a beautiful girl!

NIX ON THE SOCIETY STUFF

It is hard to weigh a question when you're ill with indigestion And your mind is slow and dull from lack of sleep; When your thoughts are incommoded by a stomach overloaded, You can't do your best by problems that are deep; When your appetite is pining from continually dining Or from overmuch of supper and of lunch, You're not rightly in condition to do justice to a mission Which needs clarity, vitality and punch.

Yet the hardworked delegations who decide the fate of nations And who hold our very future in their hands Are most fearfully enumbered with a list of dates unnumbered Which the etiquette of Washington demands. Social stuff should be diminished till the conference is finished Last the hopes of all humanity should fail; And the clouds of war should thicken just because of too much chicken, Too much lobster, too much terrapin and quail.

BOSTON, Nov. 25.—Automobiles killed 44 pedestrians in this state in October, Frank A. Fired at Woman and Friend, Ends Life

MANCHESTER, N. H., Nov. 25.—George Colburn of Athol, Mass., fired at Mrs. Elizabeth Dick of 12 South street, Derry, this afternoon in an attempt to kill her because, the police say, she had been receiving attentions from Philip Sarlette. Sarlette rushed to the woman's rescue and was fired at by Colburn. Colburn then turned the revolver on himself. He died almost instantly from the effects of the shot. Mrs. Dick received a scalp wound. The men were fellow boarders at the Dick woman's house.

SEAMAN DISCHARGED ON ASSAULT CHARGE

BOSTON, Nov. 25.—Frank Howell of Jacksonville, Fla., a negro seaman on the schooner Lillian E. Kerr, was discharged by United States Commissioner Hayes today on charge of assault with a knife on Capt. George E. Hoppe of the Kerr, while the vessel was on the high seas. He was brought into court from a hospital with a bullet wound in his back. Howell conducted his own case.

Capt. Hoppe testified that when Howell threatened him with a knife, he shot him in self-defense. Howell said he had no knife. The captain had threatened to "shoot" him overboard off his back. He testified and fired as he was stumbling over a deckload obeying an order to go forward.

The commissioner in discharging Howell said whether he had a knife or not, was unimportant as it appeared that he was badly frightened by the captain's threat.

HARVARD DRAMATIC CLUB CONCERT

The cast has been announced for the 22d production of the Harvard Dramatic club under the auspices of the Lowell Radcliffe alumnae on Monday evening, December 5, at the Lowell Opera House.

It has been the custom in the past, under Radcliffe college students, to take the female parts and Harvard men will enact the male roles. The plays are given under the direction of Mr. J. W. D. Seymour, '17, who was so successful with the production of the "Dragon," by Lady Gregory last fall, and with the three plays which the club had presented in the spring.

The cast of "The Violins of Cremona" is as follows:

Clamina, Miss Kathleen Middleton, R. '23
Filippo, E. O. Smith, H. '23
Sandro, J. M. Brown, H. '23
Taddeo, Burke Boyce, H. '23
Daniel, R. C. Bonell, H. '23
Juan de Dios, B. K. Little, H. '23
Tobias, C. Sallinger, H. '23
Piquillo, P. Wardner, H. '23
Campasanto, F. S. Hill, H. '23

"The Violins of Cremona," a one-act curtain-raiser, was translated by Ed. Scott, '20, a former member of the Dramatic club, after he had spent the last summer in studying the production of this play as it is given at the Comedie Francaise under the name of "Le Luthier de Cremona." Mr. Scott was also successful in securing the generous aid of the Comedie management for the club's production. The play itself is a delightfully pleasing expression of deep human emotion, and the scene, being laid in a violin shop of northern Italy, gives the proper romantic atmosphere. The story deals chiefly with a girl and her two suitors—Filippo, whom she adores, and Sandro, whom she really loves. Both of the men are violin makers, who have prepared instruments for a prize contest, the winner of which will also receive the girl's hand. Several complications ensue, but Filippo finally wins the prize. Then, after a vivid and intense mental struggle, he decides to depart from Cremona, leaving the girl to Sandro.

"The Witches' Mountain," a three-act play of the Argentine, forms a decided contrast to the French play. The translation, as made by Mr. Jacob S. Fassett, Jr., vividly reveals all of the fiery temperament and dashing vigor which is so characteristic of the people of that country. The scene is laid on a mountain ranch in the Andes, where the lawless and self-reliant spirit of the people manifests itself in fast and powerful action. The plot of this play also concerns the winning of the coveted heroine, but in this case, there are three suitors and their means of winning the girl are much more basely planned and boldly executed. One of these ranchmen at last wins the love of the girl, but one of the others has a strange, supernatural power which forces the girl to follow him against her will, and leads up to the tremendous final climax.

Both of these plays have won marked approval from foreign critics, but neither has ever been presented before in America.
